

BANDITS RAID CHICAGO SYNAGOGUE

REBELS PLAN THIRD ATTACK ON FEDERAL GARRISON AT NACO

Revolution General
Promises Not To Bomb
America

NACO, Ariz., April 9.—A third assault on the federal stronghold at Naco, Sonora, the first objective in a new rebel offensive planned by General J. G. Escobar, revolutionary commander-in-chief, was believed in preparation today.

Departure of General Escobar with a fifteen-car troop train from Juarez to join the depleted forces of General Fausto Topete, who led two unsuccessful attacks on Naco Saturday, convinced observers that the rebels still hoped to capture Naco.

Troop movements behind the rebel front at Naco supported belief that a new offensive was in preparation. Several detachments of rebel cavalry and the troop train of General Topete were sighted at Iromina, six miles south of the border.

Americans arriving here today from Cananea brought unconfirmed reports that rebel forces planned to employ lethal gas in an attack on Naco. The arrivals said General Topete had obtained more than a score of drums of gas to be dropped from planes on the federal garrison.

A rebel raid which preceded the cavalry and infantry attack on the federal entrenchments Saturday set fire to a building on the American side of the border and resulted in a promise by General Topete not to bomb Naco again. That promise and the presence of eighteen United States army airplanes along the border discouraged any fear of Americans of a new attack by the rebels.

The United States army air patrol, from its base at Fort Huachuca, will fly over Bisbee, Douglas, Naco, Tucson and other American border towns in a demonstration today.

General Frank S. Cocheu, commanding the western sector of the eighth corps area, denied, however, that he had instructed the American pilots, to attack Mexican ships flying over the border or to penetrate to the Mexican side of the boundary in event of further American involvement.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 9.—One squadron of United States cavalry from Fort Bliss proceeded to Fort Hachita, N. M., today on order of Major General William Lassiter, commander of the eighth corps area.

General Lassiter said the movement was only a measure designed to protect American lives and property from possible revolutionary infringements.

JURY PROBING NIGHT RIDERS

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., April 9.—The Belmont County grand jury convened here today to investigate activities of a gang of night riders who are accused of attacking "undesirables" and in some instances tarring victims.

The investigation was precipitated by an attack last week on L. H. Van Horn, a painter, who was taken to an abandoned school house and beaten into unconsciousness with hickory clubs. Van Horn says he recognized one of his assailants.

A score of attacks are laid to the gang, members of which garb themselves in long black robes and peaked hoods.

County Prosecutor George C. McKelvey, director of the inquiry, said every member of the organization is known.

The attack on Van Horn, it was revealed today, originally was scheduled to take place near the home of a woman with whom he is alleged to have been intimate.

GOVERNOR COOPER TO ATTEND OPENER

COLUMBUS, O., April 9.—Governor Cooper will forget his statehouse cares on April 15, long enough to attend the opening of the major league baseball season in Cincinnati.

The governor today received from John A. Heydler, president of the National League, a pass for "Governor Cooper and party." It is good for any National League game during the season.

AUTO FUMES FATAL

TOLEDO, O., April 9.—August Hansen, 26, was asphyxiated here while working on his automobile in a closed garage.

MAN ENDS LIFE

COSHOCTON, May 9.—Despondency over domestic troubles was assigned today as the motive for the suicide of Thomas M. Smith, 66, a transfer man who hanged himself here.

HEFLIN ON CHARLEY'S SIDE

Will Propose Law Establishing Mrs. Gann As "Second Lady Of The Land"

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The controversy over the social status of Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, half-sister of Vice President Curtis, was thrust forward as a national issue today when Senator Heflin of Alabama, a Democrat, announced seriously his intention of proposing a law at the coming session of congress officially establishing Mrs. Gann as the "second lady of the land."

Heflin's move was assured of serious and expeditious attention when he called on Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee and received Borah's promise that the resolution would not be permitted to languish long in committee.

Borah, like Heflin and Senator Morris of Nebraska, who recently asked the state department to send the matter to the world court, has long been displeased with the activities of the so-called social lobby and they are rallying sentiment for a strong fight on the side of the vice president.

While these formidable forces were massing at the capitol there developed a possibility that Secretary of State Stimson might settle the dispute before the senators could swing into action. Mrs. Gann is invited to a dinner at the Chilean Embassy Thursday night. The embassy will follow in its seating arrangements whatever may be the official rule of the state department.

The ruling of former Secretary of State Kellogg still stands, placing Mrs. Gann behind the wives of heads of foreign missions here. If Secretary Stimson should change the Kellogg ruling before Thursday night, Mrs. Gann might be elevated to the dinner chair of a hostess of the vice president to which Curtis contends she is entitled.

"I want to settle this thing in the American way," Heflin said. "I do not want to leave this issue to a bunch of diplomatic chattering like blackbirds, nor will I leave it to a ruling of nervous Nellie who sat down at the state department with his subcommittee, twiddling his apron strings."

"It's a serious issue, boys, and if it ain't settled soon the country is gone. I'm for Charlie."

HARRY SINCLAIR TO SPEND MOST OF SUMMER VACATION IN JAIL

WASHINGTON, April 9.—A heavy-set man, said to be worth more than $100,000, will take up a summer residence in the big brick district of Columbia Jail here next month, under the Supreme Court's decision upholding the senate contempt conviction of Harry Ford Sinclair.

The mandate of the supreme court will be sent down in twenty-five days, under the court's rule—May 3. The Kansas multimillionaire then will be called upon through his bondsmen to surrender to serve three months and to pay a $500 fine, imposed two years ago by District Supreme Court Justice William H. Taft.

The court's ruling, which upholds the only prison penalty imposed as a direct result of the famous Teapot Dome investigation of 1923-24, was acclaimed by senators today as a justification of the senate's assumption of wide inquisitorial powers. Taken with the Mal Daughter decision which authorizes congressional compulsion of testimony, the decision clothes the legislative arm with reinforced authority to carry on its inquiries.

Sinclair's contention that the questions asked by Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Montana, Teapot Dome prosecutor, at the memorable session of the senate public lands committee on March 22, 1924, illegally intruded into his private affairs, were lightly brushed aside by the court.

The court in the oil investigation was acting for the people of the United States, and any question bearing on the title to the naval oil reserves cannot be called private affairs, the court said. The court at the same session yesterday provided "relief" of approximately $23,000,000 a year to the subway and elevated railroad riders of New York City, by reversing an order of a three-judge federal court which allowed the Interborough Rapid Transit Company to charge a seven-cent fare instead of the five-cent fare now charged.

The court, in a decision by Justice McReynolds, asserted the company had no right to a return on the city-owned subway property, as contended by the company, and also that the federal injunction should not be allowed to thwart the intention of the state transit commission to have the question of its regulatory power decided in the state courts.

This decision was reached by a six-to-three vote, Justices Van Devanter, Sutherland and Butler dissenting.

TAKES POISON AND THEN FIRES SHACK

TOLEDO, O., April 9.—Pearl Shepard, 22, was near death here today from what police described as an attempt to commit suicide by poison and fire.

Miss Shepard was found in a burning shack at Niles Beach by a man known as Howard Nominee. The latter said he was attracted to the hut by flames and looking inside discovered the girl.

The girl told deputy sheriffs federal Nominee called, that she swallowed poison and set fire to the shack because she had nothing to live for.

CONVICT BELIEVED DEAD IS CAPTURED

COLUMBUS, O., April 9.—Bruno J. Kochynski, 25, state penitentiary convict believed burned to death in the Junction City brick plant fire last fall, has been captured in San Francisco, penitentiary officials here were notified today.

Kochynski was sent up from Montgomery County on July 11, 1927, to serve one to seven years on a larceny charge. He was one of four prisoners believed burned to death, who has been captured.

GIVEN DAMAGES PLANE CRASHES

CLEVELAND, O., April 9.—A jury in federal court here awarded $25,000 to William J. Ingram of Portsmouth, who was severely injured when the boiler of a D. T. and I. locomotive exploded.

The accident occurred May 21, 1926, at Uniolopolis. Ingram contended the explosion was caused by a defective boiler.

DEATH PLOT FAILS

Mrs. Mary Bryant, above, of Ravenna, O., together with Maynard Nichols, have been indicted by a grand jury on a charge of assault with intent to kill, following a confession by the pair to police that an attempt was made on the life of Horace Bryant, her husband. Bryant, struck over the head and tossed into a lake near Ravenna, was revived by the cold water and managed to drag himself ashore.

PRESIDENT DECIDES ON HIS AMBASSADOR TO GREAT BRITAIN

Opinion Is Favoring
Dawes But Choice
Still Secret

WASHINGTON, April 9.—President Hoover has decided upon his ambassador to the Court of St. James and will make formal announcement of his selection probably this week, it was learned at the White House today.

Former Vice-President Charles G. Dawes of Chicago is far ahead in the capital's spectacular sweepstakes on the London appointment, but diplomatic circles are still doubtful that President Hoover has selected "Helly Maria" Dawes for the ranking three-months mission to Santo Domingo.

Ambassador Allanson B. Houghton will sail for England late this month. Under ordinary procedure, his successor would sail for England soon afterward. That President Hoover is already to announce his choice, despite Dawes' absence from the country, is taken in some quarters as an indication that the former vice-president is out of the running.

Davis of St. Louis also has been mentioned for the London embassy but Missouri friends have not had an inkling Davis has been decided upon. As in the case of Dawes, Davis presents a name which for a time actively resisted the Hoover presidential candidacy last year.

Although President Hoover has indicated merit and qualification in cases he has the first consideration in his appointments, political observers believe there is still sufficient merit within the ranks of his loyal campaign friends to provide suitable material for London.

For this reason the name of Senator Walter E. Edge, of New Jersey, first mentioned in connection with the Paris vacancy, has attracted considerable attention. The nominee was one of the first Hoover men in the 1928 campaign and his influence did much to start the Hoover boom as early as the latter half of 1927. He is known to be favorably disposed toward a diplomatic appointment.

The vacancy at Paris created by the death of Myron T. Herrick will not be filled for some weeks.

CIVILIANS TO MEET IN CHARLESTON

DELAWARE, O., April 9.—Charleston, W. Va., has been selected as the site for the 1930 convention of the Ohio District of Civilians International. The district includes Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Michigan.

Charleston was selected at the close of the annual meeting here, Judge Frank F. Fleming of Marietta was elected district governor. Other officers elected were:

H. L. Hogan, Covington, Ky.; L. W. Frazier, Painesville; M. M. Williams, Columbus, and L. G. Pilgrim, Detroit, lieutenant governors; Dwight Haddock, Charleston, secretary; Walter Mayer, Flint, Mich., treasurer, and J. M. Young, Painesville, delegate to the international convention in Atlanta, Ga.

Says Minority Has Upper
Hand In Legislature Now

CLEVELAND, April 9.—State Senator George H. Bender, of Cleveland, this summer will lead a crusade for the correction of inequalities in the present method of apportioning representation in the general assembly.

It was Bender who two years ago headed the successful army that battled for the defeat of the Marshall Justice-of-the-peace bill.

Senator Bender revealed today the plans for the circulation of petitions to bring about a vote on an amendment to the state constitution providing for reapportionment of representation had been in the making for the past six weeks.

Headquarters for the campaign committee have been opened here and branch offices are to be opened in other Ohio cities soon.

"Petitions will be ready for circulation on Thursday," Senator Bender said. "Copies were submitted to the attorney general Saturday, as required by law, and I was assured that the synopsis would be approved not later than Wednesday."

Bender charged the present system of permitting every county to have at least one representative, regardless of size, made it possible for the minority forces of the state to rule the majority.

He pointed to the recent session of the legislature, in which measures of Cuyahoga County, the largest in the state, were repeatedly overthrown.

"The proposed amendment is in the interest of rural Ohio that the cities be permitted some measure of self expression," he said.

In addition to altering the system of apportioning representatives, the proposed amendment of the constitution also will determine the apportionment of the delegates to the proposed constitutional convention scheduled for 1932.

Petitions initiating the proposed amendment state that "it is proposed to fix the number of members in the general assembly at thirty in the senate and 120 in the house." At present there are thirty-one senators and 133 representatives.

BANK EXAMINER COMMITTS SUICIDE

CLEVELAND, O., April 9.—Mystery today surrounded the motive for the suicide of Howard F. Snyder, 28, examiner for the Federal Reserve Bank, at the home of his parents in Lakewood.

Police said Snyder's father, John Snyder, told them his son ate dinner with the family last night, apparently in the best of spirits.

He was planning a trip to Pittsburgh today. After sitting with his parents a while, he said he was going to his room to change clothes.

A few minutes later a shot was heard, and Snyder found him lying on the bed, a bullet through his heart and a revolver at his side.

FEAR 300 DIED FROM FLAMES

SHANGHAI, April 9.—Three hundred persons are missing in a fire which destroyed 3,000 huts at Pootung, according to reports reaching here today from Pootung.

Advices said the fire started during the night and that it was feared many had escaped death. The reports brought no word of the cause of the fire.

"MA" KENNEDY HEART BREAKER

Elderly Minister Sues Evangelist's Mother For $50,000 Heart Balm.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 9.—Mrs. Minnie "Ma" Kennedy, who recently gave her deposition for use in the impeachment trial of Judge Carlos Hardy was named defendant today in a $50,000 breach of promise suit filed by the Rev. H. H. Clark, elderly Seattle widower.

The mother of Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, "made love to the plaintiff and promised to install him in a tabernacle in Seattle," according to the complaint.

While the plaintiff was heart broken, humiliated and "dishonored" Mrs. Kennedy, who was in Portland, insisted that the Rev. Clark was "a degree lower than the man who was kissed and told about it."

"Only he was not kissed," "Ma" added.

The suit may mean the healing of the breach which has existed between Mrs. Kennedy and her daughter for some time.

Mrs. McPherson, summoned as a witness in the impeachment trial of Judge Hardy at Sacramento, said she was confident her mother was innocent of the charges.

BR-R-R-R-!

New Gazette Story
Is Thriller

Weird noises beneath a haunted house by the sea.
The disappearance of a beautiful young girl.

A labyrinth of tunnels and rooms in an abandoned mine.

A secret laboratory and experiments in explosives.

These are some of the ingredients that Joseph Jefferson Farjeon, grandson of the famous actor, Joseph Jefferson, has mixed, seasoned and brought forth under the title of "Underground" for the entertainment of readers of The Gazette.

"Underground" is the new serial story that will start in this paper tomorrow and is described as one of the best offerings of that brilliant young creator of mystery thrillers. The writings of S. S. Van Dyne and others have brought mystery stories back on a high plane in the world of fiction. At the crest of the popularity of the mystery story, The Gazette presents this new model, in generous daily installments, beautifully illustrated.

"A well-rounded, thoroughly readable yarn—a gamut of action, adventure and romance to the complete and happy satisfaction of the reader," said the reviewer of the Ohio State Journal, Columbus, about Mr. Farjeon's latest thriller. Begin reading it tomorrow.

MRS. M'PHERSON TO TESTIFY FOR STATE IN JURIST'S TRIAL

Prosecution To Ask Her
To Explain "Love
Gift."

SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 9.—Aimee Semple McPherson may be called today to justify from the witness stand her $2,500 "love gift" to Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy.

The assembly board of managers, prosecuting Judge Hardy for alleged misconduct in office, indicated that the Angelus Temple evangelist would be called as a prosecution witness today.

Miss McPherson, continuing her "devil chasing" on a passenger train which brought her here, registered with the sergeant at arms at the opening of the trial yesterday. She refused to her hotel room, however, and refused to comment on her future appearance on the witness stand.

From the first witnesses, the prosecution sought details of the legal advice assertedly given by Judge Hardy to Mrs. McPherson and her mother, Minnie "Ma" Kennedy, after the evangelist's appearance on the Mexican desert, with her story of the "kidnaping." For this advice, the prosecution charges, Aimee paid Judge Hardy $2,500. The evangelist contends the check was only a "love gift" from Angeles Temple.

Attacking the accuracy of a newspaper interview given by Judge Hardy last September, attorneys for the defense resumed their attempt to break down the testimony of William M. Levings, a Los Angeles newspaperman.

In the published interview, Judge Hardy is said to have admitted that he accepted $2,500 from Aimee Semple McPherson for legal services rendered Angeles Temple. It quoted him as saying the check was "purely a personal gift" and had nothing to do with the investigation of Mrs. McPherson's kidnapping story.

LEXINGTON, Mo., April 9.—A verdict of justifiable homicide was returned today by a coroner's jury investigating the killing of Fred Hearnington, 40, by Deputy Constable Eugene Seitz, in a dry raid at the Hearnington home near Dover, Mo.

Constable Jack Potts, who headed the raiding party, testified that he shot Hearnington after the latter had resisted the raid and attacked Potts' brother. Potts asserted Hearnington fired several shots at the officers.

The officers confiscated a pint of liquor in the Hearnington home, according to George C. Southwell, secretary of the dry maintenance league.

The radio talk will be the first of a series of weekly fifteen-minute programs which the dry organization plans to give in its effort to educate people to the observance of prohibition laws.

EXONERATE RAIDER IN FATAL SHOOTING

CLEVELAND, O., April 9.—Frank Lillo, 32, wanted in Youngstown in connection with the murder of Bruno De Mase, 30, who was shot to death in front of his home on March 17, was taken into custody here today.

Youngstown police charge Lillo shot De Mase because the latter was paying attentions to Lillo's former wife who recently divorced him.

Lillo was traced to Bellevue where it was learned he checked a suitcase. The grip was ordered sent to Cleveland yesterday and police raided the house to which it was sent and found Lillo.

OBTAIN $75,000 IN MONEY AND JEWELS FROM CONGREGATION

Five Masked Men Hold
Up 80 In Bold
Robbery

CHICAGO, April 9.—Five masked men, armed with shotguns and revolvers, invaded a meeting at the First Rumanian Synagogue last night and robbed members of $75,000 in money and jewels.

Eighty members of the congregation, including Victor Phillips of Bucharest, representative of the Rumanian government, and the Rumanian consul, were among victims of the robbery.

Rings were stripped from the fingers of women. Wallets and tie pins were taken from the men. Each victim after being searched, was ordered from a line along the wall and forced to lie down on the floor.

The synagogue was visited by Queen Marie of Roumania during her stay in Chicago, the meeting was called to hear Victor Phillips, representative of the Rumanian government in connection with the tenth anniversary celebration of United Rumania to be held in Bucharest on May 19. Leon Bogardus, Rumanian consul in Chicago, also was a victim of the robbery.

Phillips was in the midst of his address when the five robbers stepped to the outer door. Posing as worshippers they were admitted by Bernard J. Brownstein. In the vestibule Rabbi Brownstein was overpowered and forced to march down the aisle ahead of the five men who had donned masks.

Phillips, standing by the throne erected for the visit of Queen Marie, paused in his address as the single file approached. The bandit leader shouted an oath, broke from rank, and commanded the congregation to line up against the wall. Three of his confederates covered the exits while the chief and another moved down the line of victims who faced the wall.

The chief and his aide, worked deliberately but roughly. The search required nearly a half hour. Included in the loot was a $4,000 diamond ring, a pair of diamond earrings valued at $2,200 and a diamond studded bracelet valued at $1,000.

MRS. PINCHOT JOINS HUSBAND ON CRUISE

KEY WEST, Fla., April 9.—Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the former Pennsylvania governor, was expected here today to join her husband on a 15,000 mile scientific cruise of the Caribbean and South Seas.

According to word reaching here from Savannah, Ga., where Mrs. Pinchot was delayed on her southern trip, she will not be seriously incapacitated by her experience of swallowing a quantity of hair tonic by mistake instead

REBELS PLAN THIRD ATTACK ON FEDERAL GARRISON AT NACO

Revolution General
Promises Not To Bomb
America

NACO, Ariz., April 9.—A third assault on the federal stronghold at Naco, Sonora, the first objective in a new rebel offensive planned by General J. G. Escobar, revolutionary commander-in-chief, was believed in preparation today.

Departure of General Escobar with a fifteen-car troop train from Juarez to join the depleted forces of General Fausto Topete, who led two unsuccessful attacks on Naco Saturday, convinced observers that the rebels still hoped to capture Naco.

HARRY SINCLAIR TO SPEND MOST OF SUMMER VACATION IN JAIL

WASHINGTON, April 9.—A heavy-duty man, said to be worth more than $100,000, will take up a summer residence in the big brick District of Columbia Jail here next month, under the Supreme Court's decision upholding the senate contempt conviction of Harry Ford Sinclair.

The court's ruling, which upholds the only prison penalty imposed as a direct result of the famous Teapot Dome investigation of 1923-24, was acclaimed by senators today as a justification of the senate's assumption of wide inquisitorial powers.

Taken with the Mal Daugherty decision which authorizes congressional compulsion of testimony, the decision clothes the legislative arm with reinforced authority to carry on its inquiries.

Sinclair's contention that the questions asked by Senator Thomas J. Walsh, Montana, Teapot Dome prosecutor, at the memorable session of the senate public lands committee on March 22, 1924, illegally intruded into his private affairs, were lightly brushed aside by the court.

The senate in the oil investigation was acting for the people of the United States, and any question bearing on the title to the naval oil reserves cannot be called private affairs, the court said. The court at the same session yesterday provided "relief" of approximately $23,000,000 a year to the subway and elevated railroad riders of New York City, by reversing an order of a three-judge federal court which allowed the Interborough Rapid Transit Company to charge a seven-cent fare instead of the five-cent fare now charged.

The court, in a decision by Justice McReynolds, asserted the company had no right to a return on the city-owned subway property, as contended by the company, and also that the federal injunction should not be allowed to thwart the intention of the state transit commission to have the question of its regulatory power decided in the state courts.

This decision was reached by a six-to-three vote, Justices Van Devanter, Sutherland and Butler dissenting.

TAKES POISON AND THEN FIRES SHACK

TOLEDO, O., April 9.—Pearl Shepard, 22, was near death here today from what police described as an attempt to commit suicide by poison and fire.

Miss Shepard was found in a burning shack at Niles Beach by a man known as Howard Nominee. The latter said he was attracted to the shack by flames and looking inside discovered the girl.

The girl told deputy sheriffs whom Nominee called, that she swallowed poison and set fire to the shack because she had nothing to live for.

His case was continued to April 15 on account of the illness of a member of the prosecuting staff.

CONVICT BELIEVED DEAD IS CAPTURED

COLUMBUS, O., April 9.—Bruno J. Kochynski, 25, state penitentiary convict believed burned to death in the Junction City brick plant fire last fall, has been captured in San Francisco, penitentiary officials here were notified today.

Kochynski was sent up from Montgomery County on July 11, 1927, to serve one to seven years on a larceny charge. He was one of four prisoners believed burned to death, who has been captured.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., has been selected as the site for the 1930 convention of the Ohio District of Civilians International. The district includes Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and Michigan.

Charles was selected at the close of the annual meeting here. Judge Frank F. Fleming of Marietta was elected district governor. Other officers elected were: H. L. Hogan, Covington, Ky.; L. W. Frazier, Painesville, M. M. Williams, Columbus, and L. G. Pilgrim, Detroit, lieutenant governors; Dwight Haddock, Charleston, secretary; Walter Mayer, Flint, Mich., treasurer, and J. M. Young, Painesville, delegate to the international convention in Atlanta, Ga.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 9.—A plane owned by Robert Love of New Castle, Pa., and flown by Capt. V. A. C. Smith, crashed on a road near Poland Center late yesterday demolishing the ship, damaging an automobile and endangering the lives of several hundred people who had gathered to see the ship after a forced landing.

DEATH PLOT FAILS

Mrs. Mary Bryant, above, of Ravenna, O., together with Maynard Nichols, have been indicted by a grand jury on a charge of assault with intent to kill, following a confession by the pair to police that an attempt was made on the life of Horace Bryant, her husband. Bryant, struck over the head and tossed into a lake near Ravenna, was revived by the cold water and managed to drag himself ashore.

Today Heflin was in charge of his father's secretary, J. L. Thornton, who was sent here from Washington to guide him back to Washington.

"I put him to bed last night," Thornton told the United Press today. "Remember that he is just a boy and what happened yesterday and last night is just one of those things."

What happened last night was that young Heflin received a couple of cuffs from a policeman and was escorted to the West 30th St. station. There he applied for lodging for the night, or what was left of it, and was refused. Thornton finally arrived to take him to the Hotel McAlpin.

Some suggested young Heflin was depressed by a statement issued by Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

When the Ancon arrived yesterday, Heflin was in a convivial mood. He announced his stand on prohibition was almost directly opposite to that taken by his father.

"When I am in Alabama or in Washington, I'm a dry," Heflin said. "But when I get in a wet state like New York, I'm a wet, I may catch ... from Dad for saying that, but I have to say it."

"Where is Al Smith? He has the right idea. Give the states what they want. I think I'll go up to the Billmore and see Al Smith."

Senator Tom Connally of Texas decided that Heflin would not see Al Smith or anyone else.

"I have a son of my own," Connally said. "I'm going to take care of this boy."

Connally, who was also aboard the Ancon, refused to let Heflin go any further in his endorsement of Smith, who is Senator Heflin's most bitter political enemy.

STILL SEEK BODIES OF MISSING TRIO

SANDUSKY, O., April 9.—Searchers started out again today to continue the hunt for three Fremont men who were lost in a small motor boat during a storm on Sandusky Bay.

The three men are C. J. Notstine, 34, Earl Pough, 27, and Carl Graves, 29.

U. S. coast guards and other searchers have been impeded by high winds which have whipped up waves and rendered the search exceedingly dangerous.

The only possible trace of the fishermen was the discovery of two oil cans found floating near the mouth of the Sandusky River.

The three men were seen out in the bay just before a 50-mile gale and rain squall struck the waters. The shores have been searched for miles around in vain.

Senator's Son Gets

When On Spree

NEW YORK, April 9.—Thomas Heflin, Jr., advocate of states' rights in the matter of prohibition, nursed a black eye today—the price he paid for a flaming piece of research work on the workings of the Volstead law he conducted along Broadway last night.

Young Heflin, son of the dry senator from Alabama, ended his tour of the "whoopie" belt last night at the West 30th St. police station.

Yesterday he arrived on the liner Ancon from Panama, announcing that the six bottles of scotch with which he started out had proved insufficient but that he had met with many generous and kindhearted persons aboard ship.

Today Heflin was in charge of his father's secretary, J. L. Thornton, who was sent here from Washington to guide him back to Washington.

"I put him to bed last night," Thornton told the United Press today. "Remember that he is just a boy and what happened yesterday and last night is just one of those things."

Says Minority Has Upper
Hand In Legisla-
ture Now

CLEVELAND, April 9.—State Senator George H. Bender, of Cleveland, this summer will lead a crusade for the correction of inequalities in the present method of apportioning representation in the general assembly.

It was Bender who two years ago headed the successful army that battled for the defeat of the Marshall justice-of-the-peace bill.

Senator Bender revealed today that plans for the circulation of petitions to bring about a vote on an amendment to the state constitution providing for reapportionment of representation had been in the making for the past six weeks.

Headquarters for the campaign committee have been opened here and branch offices are to be opened in other Ohio cities soon.

"Petitions will be ready for circulation on Thursday," Senator Bender said. "Copies were submitted to the attorney general Saturday, as required by law, and I was assured that the synopsis would be approved not later than Wednesday."

Bender charged the present system of permitting every county to have at least one representative, regardless of size, made it possible for the minority forces of the state to rule the majority.

He pointed to the recent session of the legislature, in which pet measures of Cuyahoga County, the largest in the state, were repeatedly overthrown.

"The proposed amendment is in the interest of rural Ohio that the cities be permitted some measure of self expression," he said.

In addition to altering the system of apportioning representatives, the proposed amendment of the constitution also will determine the apportionment of the delegates to the proposed constitutional convention scheduled for 1932.

Petitions initiating the proposed amendment state that "it is proposed to fix the number of members in the general assembly at thirty in the senate and 120 in the house." At present there are thirty-one senators and 133 representatives.

BANK EXAMINER
COMMITTS SUICIDE

CLEVELAND, O., April 9.—Mystery today surrounded the motive for the suicide of Howard F. Snyder, 28, examiner for the Federal Reserve Bank, at the home of his parents in Lakewood.

Police said Snyder's father, John Snyder, told them his son ate dinner with the family last night, apparently in the best of spirits.

He was planning a trip to Pittsburgh today. After sitting with his parents a while, he said he was going to his room to change clothes.

A few minutes later a shot was heard, and Snyder found him lying on the bed, a bullet through his heart and a revolver at his side.

FEAR 300 DIED
FROM FLAMES

SHANGHAI, April 9.—Three hundred persons are missing in a fire which destroyed 3,000 hats at Pootung, according to reports reaching here today from Pootung.

Advices said the fire started during the night and that it was feared many of the missing could not have escaped death. The reports brought no word of the cause of the fire.

SEATTLE, Wash., April 9.—Mrs. Minnie "Ma" Kennedy, who recently gave her deposition for use in the impeachment trial of Judge Carlos Hardy was named defendant today in a $50,000 breach of promise suit filed by the Rev. H. H. Clark, elderly Seattle widower.

The mother of Almee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist "made love to the plaintiff and promised to install him in a tabernacle in Seattle," according to the complaint.

Gazette Story
Is Thriller

J. Jefferson Farjeon

Weird noises beneath a haunted house by the sea.

The disappearance of a beautiful young girl.

A labyrinth of tunnels and rooms in an abandoned mine.

A secret laboratory and experiments in explosives.

These are some of the ingredients that Joseph Jefferson Farjeon, grandson of the famous actor, Joseph Jefferson, has mixed, seasoned and brought forth under the title of "Underground" for the entertainment of readers of The Gazette.

"Underground" is the new serial story that will start in this paper tomorrow and it is described as one of the best offerings of that brilliant young creator of mystery thrillers. The writings of S. S. Van Dyne and others have brought mystery stories back on a high plane in the world of fiction. At the crest of the popularity of the mystery story, The Gazette presents this new model, in generous daily installments, beautifully illustrated.

"A well-rounded, thoroughly readable yarn—a gamut of action, adventure and romance to the complete and happy satisfaction of the reader," said the reviewer of the Ohio State Journal, Columbus, about Mr. Farjeon's latest thriller. Begin reading it tomorrow.

MRS. M'PHERSON TO TESTIFY FOR STATE
IN JURIST'S TRIAL

Prosecution To Ask Her
To Explain "Love
Gift."

SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 9.—Almee Semple McPherson may be called today to justify from the witness stand her $2,500 "love gift" to Superior Judge Carlos J. Hardy.

The assembly board of managers, prosecuting Judge Hardy for alleged misconduct in office, indicated that the Angelus Temple evangelist would be called as a prosecution witness today.

Miss McPherson, continuing her "devil chasing" on a passenger train which brought her here, registered with the sergeant at arms at the opening of the trial yesterday. She retired to her hotel room, however, and refused to comment on her future appearance on the witness stand.

From the first witnesses, the prosecution sought details of the legal advice assertedly given by Judge Hardy to Mrs. McPherson and her mother, Minnie "Ma" Kennedy, after the evangelist's appearance on the Mexican desert with her story of her "kidnaping." For this advice, the prosecution charges, Almee paid Judge Hardy $2,500. The evangelist contends the check was only a "love gift" from Angelus Temple.

Attacking the accuracy of a newspaper interview given by Judge Hardy last September, attorneys for the defense resumed their attempt to break down the testimony of William M. Levings, a Los Angeles newspaperman.

In the published interview, Judge Hardy is said to have admitted that he accepted $2,500 from Almee Semple McPherson for legal services rendered Angelus Temple. He quoted him as saying the check was "purely a personal matter" and had nothing to do with the investigation of Mrs. McPherson's kidnaping story.

EXONERATE RAIDER
IN FATAL SHOOTING

LEXINGTON, Mo., April 9.—A verdict of justifiable homicide was returned today by a coroner's jury investigating the killing of Fred Harrington, 40, by Deputy Constable Eugene Seitz, in a dry raid at the Harrington home near Dover, Mo.

Constable Jack Potts, who headed the raiding party, testified that Seitz shot Harrington after the latter had resisted the raid and attacked Potts' brother. Potts asserted Harrington fired several shots at the officers.

The officers confiscated a pint of liquor in the Harrington home. Harrington lived with an invalid wife.

OBTAIN $75,000 IN MONEY AND JEWELS FROM CONGREGATION

Five Masked Men Hold
Up 80 In Bold
Robbery

CHICAGO, April 9.—Five masked men, armed with shotguns and revolvers, invaded a meeting at the First Rumanian Synagogue last night and robbed members of $75,000 in money and jewels.

Eighty members of the congregation, including Victor Phillips of Bucharest, representative of the Rumanian government, and the Rumanian consul, were among victims of the robbery.

Rings were stripped from the fingers of women. Wallets and tie pins were taken from the men. Each victim after being searched, was ordered from a line along the aisle and forced to lie down on the floor.

The synagogue was visited by Queen Marie of Rumania during her stay in Chicago, the meeting was called to hear Victor Phillips, representative of the Rumanian government in connection with the tenth anniversary celebration of United Rumania to be held in Bucharest on May 10. Leon Bogardian, Rumanian consul in Chicago, also was a victim of the robbers.

Phillips was in the midst of his address when the five robbers stepped to the outer door. Posing as worshippers they were admitted by Bernard J. Brownstein. In the vestibule Rabbi Brownstein was overpowered and forced to march down the aisle ahead of the five men who had donned masks.

Phillips, standing by the throne erected for the visit of Queen Marie, paused in his address as the single file approached. The bandit leader shouted an oath, broke from rank, and commanded the congregation to line up against the wall. Three of his confederates covered the exits while the chief and another moved down the line of victims who faced the wall.

The chief and his aide, worked deliberately but roughly. The search required nearly a half hour. Included in the loot was a $4,000 diamond ring, a pair of diamond earrings valued at $2,200 and a diamond studded bracelet valued at $1,000.

MRS. PINCHOT JOINS
HUSBAND ON CRUISE

KEY WEST, Fla., April 9.—Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the former Pennsylvania governor, was expected here today to join her husband on a 15,000 mile scientific cruise of the Caribbean and South Seas.

According to word reaching here from Savannah, Ga., where Mrs. Pinchot was delayed on her southern trip, she will not be seriously incapacitated by her experience of swallowing a quantity of hair tonic by mistake instead of medicine while aboard the train.

It was learned Mrs. Pinchot wired the New York manufacturers of the tonic to learn if it contained any poison which may take effect later, the answer saying it contained a poison but not enough to do harm.

JONES WILL START
DRY LAW EDUCATION

CLEVELAND, O., April 9.—In a ten-minute talk over the radio station WHK tonight, U. S. Senator Wesley C. Jones of Seattle, Wash., author of the "5-and-10" amendment to the federal prohibition law, will inaugurate the education program of Ohio dry organizations.

Earlier he will address a dinner meeting in the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church, marking the end of the annual rally of northern Ohio dries. More than 600 reservations have been made for the meeting, according to George C. Southwell, secretary of the dry maintenance league.

The radio talk will be the first of a series of weekly fifteen-minute programs which the dry organization plans to give in its effort to educate people to the observance of prohibition laws.

ARREST MAN SOUGHT
ON MURDER CHARGE

CLEVELAND, O., April 9.—Frank Lillo, 32, wanted in Youngstown in connection with the murder of Bruno De Mase, 30, who was shot to death in front of his home on March 17, was taken into custody here today.

Youngstown police charge Lillo shot De Mase because the latter was paying attentions to Lillo's former wife who recently divorced him.

Lillo was traced to Bellevue where it was learned he checked a suitcase. The grip was ordered sent to Cleveland yesterday and police raided the house to which it was sent and found Lillo.

DESCRIPTION OF ARMORY SITES FURNISHED ADJUTANT GENERAL

Five sites under consideration for the location of a $50,000 state National Guard Armory in Xenia are described in a letter written and personally delivered by City Auditor T. H. Zell to Brig. Gen. Arthur W. Reynolds, adjutant-general of Ohio, at Columbus Monday afternoon.

The descriptive letter was written at the request of the attorney-general who desires to have as much information as possible before announcing which site he believes to be most suitable.

Adjutant-General Reynolds gave no intimation as to which of the preferred sites he most favors or when he will make known his choice.

Following are sites under consideration described by Auditor Zell:

"In compliance with your request when you were in our city viewing sites for the armory, I am describing the various proposed sites that you looked at while here.

"Site No. 1 is in Dodds Addition immediately across the street from our Central High School building. This site is bounded on three sides by streets and has a frontage of 300 feet and depth of 152 1/2 feet. This site comprises seven lots on which we hold option, and is serviced with city water and sanitary sewage. The street improvement consists of gravel. The purchase price would be $5,500.

"The second site we have marked on the map, which is enclosed, is No. 2, and consists of two lots, located on E. Main St., having a 165 1/2 foot front and a depth of 165 feet. This location, of course, is served by water and sewage and our purchase price would be approximately $13,000.

"The next site located on W. Market St., and marked on the map is No. 3. This has a frontage of ninety-nine feet and depth of 153 feet, also served with water and sewer. The purchase price is probably $12,000.

"The next site is known as the Seminary lot, located on W. Third St., having a frontage of 150 feet and a depth of 375 feet. This location is served by water and sewerage and can be had for $8,000.

"This comprises all that were

YOUTH IS DROWNED

COLUMBUS, O., April 8.—Police today were seeking to identify the body of a fifteen-year-old youth who was drowned in the Olentangy River here Sunday. In the lad's clothing was a paper bound volume of the "Books of Luke," bearing the inscription, "to Richard from mother."

TRUSS FACTORIES AND DRUGGISTS

Some truss factories, expecting to loan the druggists with a big order of trusses and belts, offers to teach the druggist truss fitting or rather make a truss expert out of him in TWO DAYS.

Any ruptured person ought to understand that it takes more than TWO DAYS or even two months to learn to fit trusses. A physician with all his knowledge of anatomy, surgery and rupture history, could not learn to fit trusses in TWO DAYS; he could not even have enough different types of rupture to experiment on in TWO DAYS.

To most truss experts, a lump or enlargement is a rupture. Few of them can tell by examination whether the enlargement is intestines, uterus, fat, or fluid, or whether it is rupture (Hernia), Hydrocele, Varicocele, or nondescript testicle. I have had patients come to me wearing trusses who were not even ruptured.

Fitting rupture appliances and other supports is purely a mechanical procedure, but every truss fitter should have a thorough knowledge of anatomy, especially of the abdominal region; he should be able to tell if the protrusion is rupture (Hernia) or some other condition—he should also know if mechanical treatment would be injurious to the patient—some cases should be treated by a surgeon instead of an expert truss fitter. Can your druggist explain these conditions to you and advise you what to do from his experience?

It is a common occurrence to have patients come to me who have traveled to truss factories to be fitted by "trained experts" without results.

Truss factories usually employ barbers makers because they are expert leather workers and all truss factories make practically the same style trusses and I know of no factory in Ohio employing a scientifically trained truss fitter and designer, and both are necessary to the patient.

You would not have a medical doctor who was trained in a medical factory.

I did not receive my rupture knowledge in any truss factory and I have been treating rupture in western Ohio and eastern Indiana for over 10 years.

I design and make all my own appliances for all body deformities.

Men, women, children and babies treated.

No charge for consultation or examination.

FIRE, AUTOMOBILE AND TORNADO INSURANCE FOR SELECT RISKS

Did You Read This Clause In Your Fire Policy?

The "Falling Walls" clause in your Fire Policy says: "If a building or any material part thereof fall except as the result of fire, all insurance by this policy on such building or its contents shall immediately cease."

This means that if part of your building was blown down and the building afterward caught fire through a short circuit, heating system or some other cause, your fire policy would not pay the loss.

The only way to protect yourself against a loss by fire immediately following the falling of a building by windstorm is by having a windstorm policy written up to the full value of the property:

Let us tell you how little it would cost to insure your property in The Travelers, the largest multiple-line insurance organization in the world.

STATE TAX RETURN

"The Home of Thrift"

Now that it is time to make your return for State and Local Taxes, allow us to remind you that State tax laws and rules regard Running Stock and Paid-Up Certificates in an Ohio Building Association as "Credits," and that in making up your return you are entitled to deduct from their amount all personal indebtedness of every description.

This is just one of several substantial advantages given the Building Association depositor. Let us tell you of others upon which we base our opinion that a well-managed Ohio Building Association offers the best investment open to the public. Let us tell you why this Association in nine years has grown from assets of $5,000,000 to $22,000,000.

DESCRIPTION OF ARMORY SITES
FURNISHED ADJUTANT GENERAL

Five sites under consideration for the location of a $50,000 state National Guard armory in Xenia are described in a letter written and personally delivered by City Auditor T. H. Zell to Brig. Gen. Arthur W. Reynolds, adjutant-general of Ohio, at Columbus Monday afternoon.

The descriptive letter was written at the request of the attorney-general who desires to have as much information as possible before announcing which site he believes to be most suitable.

Adjutant-General Reynolds gave no intimation as to which of the preferred sites he most favors or when he will make known his choice.

Following are sites under consideration described by Auditor Zell:

"In compliance with your request when you were in our city viewing sites for the armory, I am describing the various proposed sites that you looked at while here.

"Site No. 1 is in Dodds Addition immediately across the street from our Central High School building. This site is bounded on three sides by streets and has a frontage of 300 feet and depth of 182 1/2 feet. This site comprises seven lots on which we hold option, and is serviced with city water and sanitary sewage. The street improvement consists of gravel. The purchase price would be $5,500.

"The second site we have marked on the map, which is enclosed, is No. 2, and consists of two lots, located on E. Main St., having a 165 1/2 foot front and a depth of 165 feet. This location, of course, is served by water and sewage and our purchase price would be approximately $13,000.

"The next site located on W. Market St., and marked on the map is No. 3. This has a frontage of ninety-nine feet and depth of 153 feet, also served with water and sewer. The purchase price is probably $12,000.

"The next site is known as the Seminary lot, located on W. Third St., having a frontage of 150 feet and a depth of 375 feet. This location is served by water and sewage and can be had for $8,000.

"This comprises all that were viewed by you with any favor while in the city. Since you were here, however, another site has been proposed. It consists of a triangular piece of ground adjoining the city park and contains twelve lots. We have an option on this and I have indicated the place on the map and it is marked No. 5. This location would comply with your wish that it be located on the railroad. It has a 127-foot front street between its location and the Pennsylvania Railroad, also a traction line.

"These locations mentioned are each approximately the same distance from the center of the city, which you will readily see from the map.

"I trust that this will give you the information you desire before officially selecting the place, but we would also greatly appreciate your viewing the new proposed site."

Adjutant-General Reynolds, on the occasion of his recent visit to inspect various sites, pointed out, however, that armory locations must have peculiar advantages to be desirable.

TRUSS
AND DRUGGISTS

Some truss factories, expecting to lose the drugists with a big order of trusses and belts, offers to teach the druggist truss fitting or rather make a truss expert out of him in TWO DAYS.

Any ruptured person ought to understand that it takes more than TWO DAYS or even two months to learn to fit trusses. A physician with all his knowledge of anatomy, surgery and rupture history, could not learn to fit trusses in TWO DAYS; he could not even have enough different types of trusses to experiment on in TWO DAYS.

To most truss experts, a lump or enlargement is a rupture. Few of them can tell by examination whether the enlargement is intestine, uterus, fat, or fluid, or whether it is rupture—(Hernia), Hydrocele, Varicocele, or non-descended testicle. I have had patients come to me wearing trusses who were not even ruptured.

Fitting rupture appliances and other supports is purely a mechanical procedure, but every truss fitter should have a thorough knowledge of anatomy, especially of the abdominal region; he should be able to tell if the protrusion is rupture—(Hernia) or some other condition—he should also know if mechanical treatment would be injurious to the patient—some cases ought to be treated by a surgeon instead of an expert truss fitter. Can your druggist explain these conditions to you and advise you what to do from his experience?

It is a common occurrence to have patients come to me who have traveled to truss factories to be fitted by "trained experts" without

Truss factories usually employ nurses makers because they are expert leather workers, and all truss factories make practically the same style trusses and I know of no factory in Ohio employing a scientifically trained truss fitter and designer, and both are necessary to the patient.

You would not have a medical doctor who was trained in a medical factory. I did not receive my rupture knowledge in any truss factory and I have been treating rupture in western Ohio and eastern Indiana for over 10 years.

I design and make all my own appliances for all body deformities. Men, women, children and babies treated.

No charge for consultation or examination.

Some truss factories, expecting to lose the drugists with a big order of trusses and belts, offers to teach the druggist truss fitting or rather make a truss expert out of him in TWO DAYS.

Any ruptured person ought to understand that it takes more than TWO DAYS or even two months to learn to fit trusses. A physician with all his knowledge of anatomy, surgery and rupture history, could not learn to fit trusses in TWO DAYS; he could not even have enough different types of trusses to experiment on in TWO DAYS.

To most truss experts, a lump or enlargement is a rupture. Few of them can tell by examination whether the enlargement is intestine, uterus, fat, or fluid, or whether it is rupture—(Hernia), Hydrocele, Varicocele, or non-descended testicle. I have had patients come to me wearing trusses who were not even ruptured.

Fitting rupture appliances and other supports is purely a mechanical procedure, but every truss fitter should have a thorough knowledge of anatomy, especially of the abdominal region; he should be able to tell if the protrusion is rupture—(Hernia) or some other condition—he should also know if mechanical treatment would be injurious to the patient—some cases ought to be treated by a surgeon instead of an expert truss fitter. Can your druggist explain these conditions to you and advise you what to do from his experience?

It is a common occurrence to have patients come to me who have traveled to truss factories to be fitted by "trained experts" without

Truss factories usually employ nurses makers because they are expert leather workers, and all truss factories make practically the same style trusses and I know of no factory in Ohio employing a scientifically trained truss fitter and designer, and both are necessary to the patient.

You would not have a medical doctor who was trained in a medical factory. I did not receive my rupture knowledge in any truss factory and I have been treating rupture in western Ohio and eastern Indiana for over 10 years.

I design and make all my own appliances for all body deformities. Men, women, children and babies treated.

How Does She Do It!

(Not a Hair Out of Place!)

Do you know the very best way to make hair stay just as you have dressed it? Simply a few drops of Danderine! Try it, and you'll never want to use sticky dressings again—or even hair oil.

A little Danderine on the scalp actually dissolves every particle of dandruff scale, and leaves the head absolutely CLEAN. But stroke a few drops through the hair (use your comb or a Danderine-damped towel) and see how well it looks and behaves! Any permanent wave or water wave lasts much longer and looks much nicer when Danderine is used instead of water to "set" the wave.

JACOB BOWSER DIES MONDAY RESULT OF INJURIES AT WORK

Injuries sustained in lifting a large box while unloading freight at the Springfield freight house of the Springfield and Xenia Railway Co., last Thursday afternoon, resulted in the death of Jacob Bowser, 48, at 6:30 a. m. Monday at his home in Beattytown.

Mr. Bowser, a veteran employee of the traction company who was employed as a motorman at the time he was injured, is well known in Xenia.

Born in Beattytown, he spent the greater part of his life there and had been connected with the Springfield and Xenia line since its construction.

Mr. Bowser was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Old Town and was also a member of the Loyal Order of Moose in Springfield.

He is survived by his widow; five children, Dorothy, Mary Louise, Jacob, Charles and George, all of Beattytown; three brothers, Clyde and Frank Bowser, both of Springfield; and five sisters, Mrs. Walter Dersch, Springfield, Mrs. Elizabeth Bowser, Mrs. Margaret Dice and Mrs. Joseph Williamson, all of Xenia, and Mrs. Catherine Cromwell, of Dayton.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at the residence with interment in Ferncliff Cemetery.

YOUTH CONVICTED BY JURY TUESDAY

Convicted of burglary and larceny by a jury in Common Pleas Court Tuesday morning, Andrew Fleming, 18, Washington C. H., went on trial before the same jury on a second similar indictment Tuesday afternoon.

Fleming was tried in the morning on the specific charge of stealing from the farm of Zetta McElroy, Columbus Pike, near Cedarville, last March 15. The jury deliberated twenty minutes before returning the guilty verdict.

Sentence was deferred by the court pending the outcome of the jury trial for burglary and larceny in the afternoon in which the state set about trying to prove its contention that Fleming was also implicated in the theft of seven chickens worth $12.70 from the farm of Glen F. Cline, Columbus Pike, near Cedarville, also last March 15.

CLUB LEADERS TO HEAR ADDRESSES

Leaders of Greene County's Boys' and Girls' Four-H Clubs will meet at the county farm bureau office in the Federal Building Friday morning at 10 o'clock for the annual leaders' conference.

PLAY LEADS IN JUNIOR CLASS PLAY

RALPH BALDNER

Miss Sara Davidson, as "Melisande," daughter of "Mrs. Knowle," has the leading feminine role, and Ralph Baldwin, as "Ger-vase Mallory," plays opposite her in "The Romantic Age," a three-act comedy to be presented by the junior class of Xenia Central High School as its annual class play.

CHURCH LIFTS DEBT IN BRIEF CAMPAIGN

It took only fifteen minutes for the congregation of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church to raise $1,500 at the regular morning services last Sunday with which to liquidate the church debt of $1,200. It was revealed by the Rev. L. A. Washburn, pastor, Monday.

The money was pledged almost immediately when subscriptions were sought and the total amount asked was over-subscribed by $300. The balance is expected to be used to finance re-decoration of the church and Sunday School.

The debt was incurred about a year and one-half ago. The Rev. Mr. Washburn said that rumored sale of the church property at Main and Monroe Sts. to the Standard Oil Co. and plans for erection of a new church or a merger with the First M. E. Church, this city, are without foundation.

GUILD PLAYS WILL BE PRESENTED HERE TUESDAY, APRIL 23

The next appearance of the Xenia Little Theater Guild will be at the Opera House Tuesday evening, April 23, when the Guild presents three one-act plays: "Columbine in Business" a fantasy, "Jon" a tragedy, and "Who's Money" a farce. Members of the casts are now working on the plays under the direction of Miss Esther Muriel Smith.

The committee selecting the plays announces that the last performance of the season will be during the third week in May and will consist of a one-act play and a two-act play.

Those taking part in "Columbine in Business" are Miss Helen Ford and James Bryson, Isador Hyman, and John Beacham.

"Jon" will be played by Miss Elsie Canby, William Horner, Mrs. James Wilson, III, Marcus McCallister, Miss Edna Dailey, and Miss Mildred Mason.

Harry Higgins, Mrs. Ray Cox, and Robert Owens are cost in "Who's Money."

OFFICIAL WINE BILL

LONDON, April 9.—Wines and cigars for entertaining distinguished visitors cost the government $7,965 according to the accounts just published of the Government Hospitality Fund.

ROSE FIESTA IN MAY

SAN JOSE, Cal., April 9.—Literally millions of flowers are being grown in this district for the Fourth Annual Fiesta de las Rosas to be held here May 17 and 18. The fiesta, one of the outstanding floral events of California, takes place in a setting that marked the early history of the state.

WHEN A CHILD IS FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Cold, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

LONG TRESSES GONE FOREVER DECLARES PARISIAN STYLIST

By PRINCESS ALI FAZIL

PARIS, April 9.—Hesitate no longer; cut off your hair again if you have been letting it grow, for Antoine says so, and Antoine knows, for, as every smart woman knows, Antoine is the Rembrandt of hair-dressing.

"Hair must remain short," Antoine dictates, and the news is flashed around the world. You can be certain hair will remain short, for Antoine's word is final, since he is undisputed czar of the nobility of the scissors and curling irons.

Antoine is now inspiring himself from the ancient hair-dressing of the Romans and Greeks, and you can expect to have our shingled heads look as near like our ancestors of the pre-Christian era as it is possible for a modern artist to copy.

There was a sort of movement to detrone Antoine, and to let the hair grow long again, but American women backed him splendidly, along with their French cousins and so Antoine is firm on his throne and we can quit worrying for another year as to whether we must pass through that stage of hair-growing when the hair is neither long nor short.

Even if he were not the best-known hair-dresser in the world, Antoine could still be famous as the only coiffeur ever to own a chateau, ride his own hunters, design his own automobiles and build his own tomb.

His tomb is really a vaulted grave over which will rise a sculptured group representing "A soul getting away from the flesh." It will be quite modernist, and the feminine figures will have bobbed hair.

The tomb will be crystal, rare woods and silk, rivaling anything that the King of Egypt ever boasted.

Although thinking in terms of tombs, Antoine is very much alive. Every day he tinkers with hair on wax heads, trying for inspiration.

It is art which enabled him to accentuate each woman's character and personality by the manner he arranges her curls or sets the hair. Antoine has abolished those bat-talions of waves in regular unbroken lines which could be seen on any head. His psychology of women makes him create a different coiffure for every head.

His salons have nothing of the palatial appearances of modern hair-dressers. Simplicity and harmony of lines in black and white surroundings enhance the beauty of women who go there. No social salon has ever seen such a variety of renowned artists and society leaders all of them subdued to Antoine's decrees.

"Hair still remains short because I feel an era approaching where woman's independence will refuse anything which will prevent her freedom of movements. Before, her aim was seeking perpetual admiration from men. Now she has a world of her own, and is like a star which detaches itself from another planet.

"Modern woman has inherited all of man's independence and modern life conditions encourage her audacity. I can better imagine women dressing as men in future ages than ever going back to long hair."

"Two styles of hair-dressing are required nowadays, one for sport life and the other more complicated and adapted to evening dress. Evening coiffures demand more originality, combinations of color, and shape must be sought, keeping always in mind that ornamentation needs a great care not to be heavy. Curls alternating with smooth hair gives very pretty results. I increase or decrease the number of curls according to the head with which I am dealing, and that is the secret of my creations."

"The permanent wave is a great help to me because it allows the negligé allure for the day and can be beautifully worked for evening wear."

"French women are more conservative in the choice of their coiffure." They hold to one coiffure and try to improve it by refining details. Americans are more sincere, and comb according to their moods."

It took only fifteen minutes for the congregation of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church to raise $1,500 at the regular morning services last Sunday with which to liquidate the church debt of $1,200, it was revealed by the Rev. L. A. Washburn, pastor, Monday.

The money was pledged almost immediately when subscriptions were sought and the total amount asked was over-subscribed by $300. The balance is expected to be used to finance re-decoration of the church and Sunday School.

The debt was incurred about a year and one-half ago.

The Rev. Mr. Washburn said that rumored sale of the church property at Main and Monroe Sts. to The Standard Oil Co. and plans for erection of a new church or merger with the First M. E. Church, this city, are without foundation.

Mr. Bowser, a veteran employee of the traction company who was employed as a motorman at the time he was injured, is well known in Xenia.

Born in Beattytown, he spent the greater part of his life there and had been connected with the Springfield and Xenia line since its construction.

Mr. Bowser was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Old Town and was also a member of The Loyal Order of Moose in Springfield.

He is survived by his widow; five children, Dorothy, Mary Louise, Jacob, Charles and George, all of Beattytown; three brothers, Clyde and Frank Bowser, both of Springfield; and five sisters, Mrs. Walter Dersch, Springfield, Miss Elizabeth Bowser, Mrs. Margaret Dice and Mrs. Joseph Williamson, all of Xenia, and Mrs. Catherine Cromwell, of Dayton.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at the residence with interment in Ferncliff Cemetery.

Those taking part in "Columbine in Business" are Miss Helen Ford and James Bryson, Isador Hyman, and John Beacham.

"Jon" will be played by Miss Elsie Canby, William Horner, Mrs. James Wilson, III, Marcus McCallister, Miss Edna Dailey, and Miss Mildred Mason.

Harry Higgins, Mrs. Ray Cox, and Robert Owens are cost in "Who's Money."

SAN JOSE, Cal., April 9.—Literally millions of flowers are being grown in this district for the Fourth Annual Fiesta de las Rosas to be held here May 17 and 18. The fiesta, one of the outstanding floral events of California, takes place in a setting that marked the early history of the state.

WHEN A CHILD IS FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 117 Hudson St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

LACK OF KNOWLEDGE—My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge: because thou hast rejected knowledge, I will also reject thee, that thou shalt be no priest to me: seeing thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I will also forget thy children.—Hosea 4:6.

ORGY OF SPECULATION

In spite of much agitation, drastic action by congress to control stock speculation is unlikely. At the same time, Senator Glass will have the support of a strong sentiment throughout the country in his effort to obtain for the federal reserve board the necessary power to prevent the excessive use of funds for speculative purposes. Apparently the board is impotent to do that, as it is now constituted and empowered. The warning it issued nearly two months ago has not prevented the volume of loans to brokers from continuing to mount. The orgy goes on, with those who are financing it disposed to challenge the right of the federal reserve board to take a hand in the game.

The board's disavowal of any intention to control speculation in stocks, when it issued its warning, was a figure of speech. The protection of the capital requirements of commerce and industry implies the possibility of restricting the amount of funds available for speculation, which is a form of control over the stock market. The federal reserve board is the proper agency to exercise any regulatory power that may be necessary to protect the rights of legitimate business, against invasion by the speculative class. Strong opposition to giving the board more power may be expected from the stock gamblers; and it will not be lessened by the obvious willingness of the board to exercise it. There may be difficulty also in securing for the board the same effective control over private or "bootleg" funds, as over the funds of member banks. These are minor considerations. The outstanding fact is that strengthening the board's hands apparently is the only alternative to allowing the present speculative market to run unbridled with possibilities of disaster that no one cares to picture.

While it may be true, as observers declare, that business is not yet showing any adverse effect from the withdrawal of capital for speculative purposes, a day may come, if the flow of funds into Wall street continues, when industry may feel the pinch of a monetary famine.

The trouble over the national origins law arises because at the recent short session one senator was able to hold up action which congress and the President both desired to see put through; and he was able to do this because the senate clings to its archaic rule which permits a member to talk as long as he wants to on any subject under the sun.

Like his predecessor in office, President Hoover can see a dollar a long way off, and recognize it as belonging to the taxpayer.

Your BROADWAY And Mine

By Walter Winchell

Achmed Abdullah has written a novel based on Belasco. The Woman's Home Companion offers a $25,000 prize for the best novel (to pro or amateur) interpreting life in the modern American city. A diamond bracelet was probably true, for last evening, with several Guild reliables, "Man's Estate" appeared to be good entertainment. The playing of the entire cast is very fine. Earle Larimore, in the lead, accounting for himself most creditably, and Margalo Gilmore, and Sessay, lending her great charm and talent to the proceedings. Dudley Digges, Elizabeth Patterson and Armina Marshall were others who contributed in the Guild manner.

IN THIS TOWN OF OURS
NEW YORK. — Christopher Morley, the ex-columnist, who now sponsors former stage successes in Hoboken, N. J., was interviewed the other day. He asserts that Broadway has "blown itself up" and that the billing "Straight From Broadway" doesn't mean a thing, except possibly a slight depreciation. "But," says Mr. Morley, "say to Boston and Philadelphia, 'Straight From Hoboken' and they'll want it!"

Mr. Morley also predicts "some day Hoboken will be a name in the theatre like Moscow."

Once a humorist, as the saying goes, always.
THE BURDEN OF MAN
In their joint effort, "Man's Estate," which arrived at the Biltmore via the Theatre Guild route, Bruce Gould and Beatrice Blackmar reveal how a young man's ambitions and aspirations can be stifled by love—or woman. It was this inspector's impression after the last asbestos dropped, that Mr. Gould's ambitions to write a good show resulted in accomplishment, because his collaborator happens to be Mrs. Gould. At any rate, "Man's Estate" is a delightful diversion, sometimes sluggish, but more often entrancing, and the romance in it is incessantly thrilling. The piece was once known as "King X," and Jed Harris wrote it with a while, eventually defaulting, with the wisenheimers contending that it was because it was miscast. That

FORBEARANCE
HAST thou named all the birds without a gun?
Loved the wood-rook and left it on its stalk?
At rich men's tables eaten bread and pulse?
Unarmed, faced danger with a heart of trust?
And loved so well a high behavior,
In man or maid, that thou from speech refrained,
Nobility more nobly to repay?
O, be my friend, and teach me to be thine!
—Ralph W. Emerson (1803-1883)

The Way of the World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

LINKED WITH THE PAST

Progress is slow in human nature, because we are linked with the past. A London young man named Mackenzie proposed to a young lady. She told him he would have to prove his courage and be an old-fashioned hero. She demanded a pirate or a cave man or something like that. The poor young man resigned his job as a clerk in a hardware store. He went looking for hero jobs. There are few sinking ships these days, few maidens to be rescued from burning buildings. This young woman hasn't grown up into the modern world. The young man hasn't either, or he wouldn't be trying to do these stunts. The young lady ought to be smart enough to know that it's brain, not brawn, that the prying young gentleman needs for this particular world.

THE CARD MAKER

John Omwake, president of the United States Playing Card Co., does not play bridge. Why should he? He does his share in giving others an amusing method of killing time. He doesn't have to kill his. He doubtless finds many vastly more interesting things to do. That would not be difficult.

CROOKS AND DETECTIVES

New York City is to have a division of psychiatry in the department of hospitals. Experts on the human mind and emotions will attempt to separate the mentally deficient, in criminal cases, from the normal cases. It is hard to believe any criminals are entirely "normal." And yet the habit of being vicious, when it is taken on in youth, can lead a young man of good mind to a career of crime. Of course he will not have a trained and cultivated mind. Any man with good education knows that crime fails! It doesn't pay; it exacts too high a price.

DISCRIMINATING

Speaking of a department of psychiatry, the city of New York is at least on the right track in making a definite effort to separate the positively mentally defective from the other, we may get at the cause of crime.

Who's Who in Timely Views

WORLD COURT ENTRY BY AMERICA PREDICTED

Senator from Utah. (William Rufus King was born at Millmore City, Utah, June 3, 1854. He was educated at Brigham Young academy and the university of Utah. He received a B. S. degree at the University of Michigan. He began practicing at Millmore City, later at Provo City. He was a member of the territorial legislature of Utah three terms and president of the upper body one term; county attorney, Utah county and city attorney of Provo City. Serving as associate justice of the supreme court of Utah three years, he was elected to congress in 1897. He was elected to the senate in 1917 and is now completing his second term. He has been a delegate to various Democratic national conventions and his home is in Salt Lake City.) America's entry into the World Court with reservations, probably the so-called Root protocol, will take place. I am in favor of the United States entering the Court, either with or without the Root formula.

It is my opinion that before congress adjourns in the session to be called in December, the United States senate will have accepted the protocol to the World Court with some reservations.

As for the Philippines, I think they ought to be made independent. I think we ought to redeem the promises we made in the ones bill to the Philippine Islands to give them their independence and that a treaty should be negotiated with all the powers in the Pacific, under the terms of which the political independence of the Philippines would be respected. That will solve the sugar tariff question as far as the Philippines are concerned. It will redeem traditions as well and remove the charge that the United States is holding an alien race for exploitation.

The Philippines have already cost the United States more than $1,000,000,000 to maintain. Japan never has had any inclination to possess the Islands. There are not any more Japanese in the Philippines now than there were 25 or 30 years ago.

Japan is looking toward Manchuria and Siam for an outlet for her excess population.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Beauty today is very much a matter to care and perfect grooming. So much so that smart women who are fastidious about every detail of their appearance often present an ensemble effect of greater loveliness, chic and charm than their more naturally beautiful acquaintances.

Any woman may cultivate this perfection of appearance by paying strict attention to the important little details. For this reason I am going to outline a program of care in "little things" that contribute largely to beauty. Eyebrows, for instance, and ears, necklines, the grooming of hands and nails are some subjects we shall consider in their relation to a complete beauty ensemble.

Today eyes and eyebrows matter tremendously—with all the leading modistes of Paris sponsoring off-the-face hats. The tight little pull-down clothes that have been smart for several seasons have concealed eyes and eyebrows so well that many women have been tempted to become careless about properly caring for them. But the vogue of the cloche is less important at present than the more revealing trousers and even those who wear hats with some of a brim must remember that hats cannot be worn at all times and that it is wisest to have eyes and eyebrows as faultlessly groomed and lovely as scientific care and art can make them.

There are all types of eyebrows—some that are straight and sturdy—others that sweep outward gracefully like wings; others slanting humorously—still others that arch unphatically in a proud, patrician curve. In general, the outline that the brows have naturally is the line that is most becoming to their owner's type of face, but if it is not, she may somewhat change their shape to suit her type. A little experiment in brushing the brows in different ways will prove which line is most becoming. And continual brushing will train them in the way that they should go.

But, in attempting to change the shape of your eyebrows, do not go to extremes in tweezing, or "plucking" them. And never, never shave them into a more perfect line. The eyebrow that is sapped by these methods is never always harsh and unbecoming. And the too-thin eyebrow gives an unpleasant, severe expression to the eyes and face.

The tweezers may be used to remove any wayward hairs that are straggling from the main eyebrow line, and any that bristle between the brows just over the bridge of the nose. Brows that come together have usually meant an indignant, puzzled look to an otherwise calm and unexcited face. Just as brows that are too widely separated make the face look vacant.

The best way to shape and groom the brows is to brush them night and morning with a firm small brush and an eyebrow cream or vaseline. There are excellent creams prepared to darken and encourage the growth of brows and lashes. Continued brushing with these creams will keep the eyebrows slim and silky.

In making up the eyes a little of this cream may be left upon the eyelids to give the much-desired "shiny lid" effect that is so fashionable just now. A cream eye shadow in a shade in harmonize with the eyes may be used instead. A discreet use of colored eye-liner and mascara is sometimes permissible and attractive for day as well as evening wear.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON. — President Hoover is pretty plainly on record as a dry, but just what kind? — a Volstead dry? — or merely a dry, without necessarily being quite as dry as that?

He seems committed to the eighteenth amendment. The circumstance is being more and more strongly emphasized that he never appears to have expressed approval of Volsteadism—further than to say it ought to be enforced while it remains the law of the land—but without implying any particular objection to its modification.

Does he stand pat for one-half of one per cent?

Or does he see nothing inconsistent in professing dry principles, while indulging alcoholic beverages up to the point where, as the wets put it, they become "intoxicating in fact?"

The issue concerning the percentage of Mr. Hoover's dryness has developed unexpected acuteness in the last few days by reason of the extraordinarily large share which prohibition problems have been monopolizing in the recent news.

The long wrangle looked as if it had been settled, for the present, at least.

A glance at any newspaper hardly bears this theory out.

The I'm Alone case. Wets predicting war unless that sort of thing is stopped. The DeKings killing at Aurora, Ill. One dry congressman under indictment on charge of smuggling liquor into the country. Another dry congressman accused of abusing his official position to accomplish a similar end. The diplomatic corps in Washington by the ears over its supplies of drinkables.

Not only is the row not over—it is fiercer than ever it was.

How in the dickens a congressional discussion of the situation can improve matters is not a bit easy to understand.

Insofar as congress is concerned, no relief is in sight.

The Seventy-first congress can be relied on for nothing but more of the same—except, perhaps, in larger quantities.

Has Mr. Hoover something original up his sleeve?

If he has, it must be one of two things—

1. Enforcement that will enforce, and the more we have had of that, up to date, the worse we have been off.

2. Modification, to some extent—and can he have the nerve to spring such a suggestion, in view of the drys' last electoral victory, as shown in congress' dryness, whatever it may have meant as between the rival presidential candidates?

The wets are a little hopeful of Mr. Hoover, nevertheless.

The drys are slightly nervous. The drys bank on the Eighteenth amendment, which they are confident never can be changed. The wets do not forget that a simple congressional majority can alter the Volstead act.

Liver with vegetables
Shamrock salad
Chocolate Pudding
Plenty of vegetables make this liver dish different. The Shamrock salad sounds like a leftover from St. Patrick's day, but is a good recipe to use at any time. Better file it if you have not been in the habit of using it. The liver dish will serve four.

Today's Recipes

Liver with Vegetables — One pound liver, salt, pepper, flour, two tablespoons fat, one cup diced carrots, one large pepper, sliced, fourth cup sliced onions, fourth cup sliced mushrooms, one tablespoon flour, two cups boiling water. The liver may be any kind — beef, veal, pork or lamb. Cut into serving pieces or two-inch squares, dip in the salt and peppered flour. Prepare the vegetables. Heat the fat in the frying pan and quickly brown the liver pieces. Remove to a dish. In the hot fat cook the diced carrots, onion, pepper and mushroom slices for five minutes, stirring to prevent their scorching. Add the flour to take up any excess fat in the pan, and then stir in the boiling water (or bouillon if that is preferred). Add the liver pieces and mix well, then pour into the casserole or baking dish, cover and bake in moderate oven—250 degrees F.—for 30 minutes.

Shamrock Salad—One cup cottage cheese, green olives, sliced; four green peppers lettuce or other salad greens. Mix the sliced olives in the cottage cheese, add one-half green pepper, chopped fine. Mix well, moistening with salad dressing, if necessary. Cut slices from the center of the green peppers, cross-wise to form the shamrocks. Place on a bed of lettuce and fill with the cheese mixture. Use two "shamrocks" for each serving. Garnish with olives.

Suggestions

Ironing Linen
Linen should be quite damp when ironed and must be ironed until perfectly dry. Napkins should be ironed on both sides and a tablecloth should be ironed in the same way to give it the best finish and appearance.

Diet and Health

BY KATH HUNT PETERS, M.D. AUTHOR OF "DIET AND HEALTH" AND "DIET FOR CHILDREN"

Reducing by Exercise Alone

Dear Doctor: About five years ago I reduced 45 pounds in about eight months by using monograph records for exercising. I was supposed to diet along with the exercising, but I did not follow the diet. However, I did cut down on my bread. But after losing 45 pounds, I was still about 30 pounds overweight, and I could not reduce any more, no matter how much I exercised. Now, I wrote to an authority on reducing, who told me that if one found he could reduce no further, it showed he should not take off any more, and that 193 pounds was probably as low as I could ever reduce.

I had weighed 238 pounds at the beginning, and was about 26 years old, height 5 feet 9½ inches. I am now 32 years old and weigh 248 pounds, having gained back all I lost, and then some. Do you think it is possible for me to reduce to, say, 165 pounds? Please tell me what you mean by maintenance diet?

The person to whom you wrote regarding your inability to reduce further was no "authority." Mrs. L., for what he told you is not true, for you can get to normal weight. It very frequently happens that after the first excess water and fat have disappeared, the diet has to be lower a little more to continue the reduction, or else the exercises have to be increased. Often, however, the reducer gets a little careless in his diet, and does take more, instead of less. Perhaps but one extra meal a week makes the calories average the maintenance number.

You continue with your exercises, Mrs. L., and also diet scientifically, and you will reduce, I guarantee you that.

Recently I answered in the column a letter from a woman who lost 120 pounds in 13 months, and she said she was going to continue until down to normal. She weighed 350 pounds at the beginning!

All the records for exercising that I have examined are good.

but you have to combine the right diet with any exercises in order to reduce. If exercises can be taken, it is a very important part of the reducing regime because exercise is important, even in normal weight, to improve the circulation of the blood and increase the muscle tone, to energize the whole system, to give muscle co-ordination for suppleness and agility; in other words, to assist all bodily functions. You will find that if you do some vigorous exercise every day, you won't have to diet so much. Walking is a good exercise. While theoretically an hour a day of brisk walking uses up but 300 calories at the time, it does speed up the bodily activities so that the food is burned much faster throughout the day.

The maintenance diet is what its name suggests; one that maintains you at your present weight, whether it is overweight, underweight or normal. For instance, if your weight is stationary for a certain period of time, then the average number of calories you have consumed during that period is considered your maintenance number. This you have to determine for yourself, of course.

Have you our pamphlet on reducing and gaining? That gives more specific directions. "Will you please tell me what will heal an old operation wound which has opened? It has healed up mostly, but it drains and I have tried everything to heal it. A scab will form over night, and on touching it, it will break open and drain."

Have the wound examined. Miss A. It may be possible that there is a little bit of foreign matter there. Perhaps some material was used in sewing the wound which was not absorbable and it escaped the attention of the surgeon when he removed the stitches.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

A woman who lived to more than her three score years and ten said she thought age should have no terrors for anyone. In her estimation it was a time of greatest happiness, of serene surveying of the steep path of life trodden and of helping others over the stoniest bits.

This woman declared that the happiest part of her life had been its last 20 years.

Judging from my correspondence, young people do have a lot of trouble. Their letters constitute the greater part of my mail.

ALWAYS WAITING: It seems ridiculous to me that you still spend hours waiting for your boy friend when, if you gave him up you could have a good time with other friends. As soon as it was known that you and this boy stopped going exclusively, you were another, the others would come back. But you bore down to go with this young man, and finally marry him, you will be bored many times and have no way out. I suppose he has an attractive personality. His actions and the loss of your old friends are exactly the reasons I advocate not going with just one boy friend unless you are engaged to him. You are more or less at his mercy, you see, and by throwing a jealous fit now and then when you do go with another, he can keep you miserably waiting for him. If you are so afraid of losing him that you will not take a drastic step, you will have to continue to wait, my dear. But my very strong impression is that you should read the riot act to the young man, telling him that the VERY NEXT time he leaves you waiting you will not be at home when he calls and he will get no more dates with you. And MEAN it.

VIOLET: Your problem is certainly a baffling one. You and the boy both love your husband and his father. He is so good in many ways and so unbecomingly others. Is the worry caused by his ways the sole cause of your ill health and the boy's? Are you eating the right things, what the dietitians call a "balanced diet"? Do you drink milk and get plenty of fresh air and proper exercise? I know that worry injures one's health quicker than anything, but you must try to get stronger. Then, perhaps your problem may not seem quite so hopeless. Your husband is probably jealous of his son. Consciously or unconsciously, he wants your sole attention. Thus he tries to belittle and make ridiculous all the boy's efforts. Could you send the boy away to school or to a camp for the summer, where he will have his health supervised and be treated with impartiality? If not, you must thrash the matter over with his father. Tell him that your own and the boy's health depends on him. He may think to develop a more manly spirit in the boy, perhaps thinks him weak and effeminate. Try to show him that he is taking the wrong that in order to make him strong and self-reliant so that he may go out into the world at arm's length and be self-supporting, he must try to help him along the lines on which the child is made—not beat him into the pattern he chooses. I am sorry your letter is so long, it cannot be printed, for I am sure many women have the same problem. It is not uncommon to find a lack of sympathy and understanding between a boy and his father, and the mother torn between the two, trying to protect the child and at the same time retain her love for the husband who is good in other ways.

Peter's Adventures

BY FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

MOON MAGIC AND FLIGHT FEVER

Such a to-do in the middle of the night. Peter was puzzled. "Do tell me what it is all about, Gander, can't you?" pleaded the boy. "What could have happened to make you go on like that?"

Gander gazed long at Peter before he spoke—the boy could see the bird's eyes shining in the moonlight, for by now all was clear, clear as only a starry night in November can be, and the "yellow ball," as the birds would have called the moon, was rolling along through the deep blue of the sky.

"My boy, the greatest thing that can happen to a Goose has happened tonight," answered Gander, solemnly, wagging his head. "Every Goose in the stock has caught the flight fever. We have felt the urge to fly; the desire to leave this wretched old barnyard, all our old friends, the cows, the horses, the pigs and the sheep and, soaring into the clear, cold air, sail past bare woods, frozen rivers, mountains, with their snow-tipped peaks, on and on and on, until we come to the land that is ever green, to the waters that are always open, under skies that are always sunny."

"Aha! How my heart aches when I think of it. For although the greatest has happened, so too, has the saddest thing come to us. For at the moment we most long to fly we remember we are geese of the barnyard, born to spend our lives on earth, with clipped wings and short breaths that would not take us far. Alas and alack! We are tame. What wouldn't we give to be wild Geese on a clear November night!"

There were few clouds to get in the way of the "yellow ball" as it rolled along. They had blown off to play tag in some other part of the sky, and in the light of the moon things began to take strange shapes and to do queer things. The shadows of two tall, bare trees that grew by the fence suddenly clasped branches and joined in a mad dance. Over in the corner a bush that the wind had not yet stripped of its long leaves swayed and swirled in the light breeze, now this way, now that. "Looks just like a ghost," muttered the boy, under his breath, although how he knew, nobody knows, for, to tell the truth, he had never seen one of a castle grand and the little duck pond glistened like silver.

Next: "Call From the Clouds."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

ORGY OF SPECULATION

In spite of much agitation, drastic action by congress to control stock speculation is unlikely. At the same time, Senator Glass will have the support of a strong sentiment throughout the country in his effort to obtain for the federal reserve board the necessary power to prevent the excessive use of funds for speculative purposes. Apparently the board is impotent to do that, as it is now constituted and empowered. The warning it issued nearly two months ago has not prevented the volume of loans to brokers from continuing to mount. The orgy goes on, with those who are financing it disposed to challenge the right of the federal reserve board to take a hand in the game.

The board's disavowal of any intention to control speculation in stocks, when it issued its warning, was a figure of speech. The protection of the capital requirements of commerce and industry implies the possibility of restricting the amount of funds available for speculation, which is a form of control over the stock market. The federal reserve board is the proper agency to exercise any regulatory power that may be necessary to protect the rights of legitimate business, against invasion by the speculative class. Strong opposition to giving the board more power may be expected from the stock gamblers; and it will not be lessened by the obvious willingness of the board to exercise it. There may be difficulty also in securing for the board the same effective control over private or "bootleg" funds, as over the funds of member banks. These are minor considerations. The outstanding fact is that strengthening the board's hands apparently is the only alternative to allowing the present speculative market to run unbridled with possibilities of disaster that no one cares to picture.

While it may be true, as observers declare, that business is not yet showing any adverse effect from the withdrawal of capital for speculative purposes, a day may come, if the flow of funds into Wall street continues, when industry may feel the pinch of a monetary famine.

The trouble over the national origins law arises because at the recent short session one senator was able to hold up action which congress and the President both desired to see put through; and he was able to do this because the senate clings to its archaic rule which permits a member to talk as long as he wants to on any subject under the sun.

Like his predecessor in office, President Hoover can see a dollar a long way off, and recognize it as belonging to the taxpayer.

The Way of the World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

LINKED WITH THE PAST

Progress is slow in human nature, because we are linked with the past. A London young man named Mackenzie proposed to a young lady. She told him he would have to prove his courage and be an old-fashioned hero. She demanded a pirate or a cave man or something like that. The poor young man resigned his job as a clerk in a hardware store. He went looking for hero jobs. There are few sinking ships these days, few maidens to be rescued from burning buildings. This young woman hasn't grown up into the modern world. The young man hasn't either, or he wouldn't be trying to do these stunts. The young lady ought to be smart enough to know that it's brain, not brawn, the propitious young gentleman needs for this particular world.

THE CARD MAKER

John Omwake, president of the United States Playing Card Co., does not play bridge. Why should he? He does his share in giving others an amusing method of killing time. He doesn't have to kill his. He doubtless finds many vastly more interesting things to do. That would not be difficult.

CROOKS AND DETECTIVES

New York City is to have a division of psychiatry in the department of hospitals. Experts on the human mind and emotions will attempt to separate the mentally deficient, in criminal cases, from the normal cases. It is hard to believe any criminals are entirely "normal." And yet the habit of being vicious, when it is taken on in youth, can lead a young man to a good mind to a career of crime. Of course he will not have a trained and cultivated mind. Any man with good education knows that crime fails! It doesn't pay; it exacts too high a price.

DISCRIMINATING

Speaking of a department of psychiatry, the city of New York is at least on the right track in making a definite effort to separate the positively mentally defective from the other, we may get at the cause of crime.

Senator Rufus King was born at Milmore City, Utah, June 3, 1884. He was educated at Brigham Young academy and the university of Utah, later obtaining an L. L. B. degree at the University of Michigan. He began practicing at Milmore City, later at Provo City. He was a member of the territorial legislature of Utah three terms and president of the upper body one term; county attorney, Utah county and city attorney of Provo City. Serving as associate justice of the supreme court of Utah three years, he was elected to congress in 1917 and is now completing his second term. He has been a delegate to various Democratic national conventions and his home is in Salt Lake City. The Philippines have already taken place. I am in favor of the United States entering the Court, either with or without the Root formula.

It is my opinion that before congress adjourns in the session to be called in December, the United States senate will have accepted the proposal to the World Court with some reservations.

As for the Philippines, I think they ought to be made independent. I think we ought to render the promises we made in the ones left to the Philippine islands to give them their independence and that a treaty should be negotiated with all the powers in the Pacific, under the terms of which the territorial integrity and the political independence of the Philippines would be respected. That will solve the sugar tariff question as far as the Philippines are concerned. It will redeem traditions as well and remove the charge that the United States is holding an alien race for exploitation.

The Philippines have already been the United States more than $1,000,000,000 to maintain. Japan never has had any inclination to possess the islands. There are not any more Japanese in the Philippines now than there were 25 or 30 years ago.

Japan is looking toward Manchuria and Siam for an outlet for her excess population.

"MRS. L."

The person to whom you wrote regarding your inability to reduce further was no "authority." Mrs. L., for what he told you is not true, for you can get to normal weight. It is very frequently happens that after the first excess water and fat, have disappeared, the diet has to be lower a little more to continue the reduction, or else the exercises have to be increased. Often, however, the reducer gets a little careless in his diet, and does take more, instead of less. Perhaps but one extra meal a week makes the calories average the maintenance number.

You continue with your exercises, Mrs. L., and also diet scientifically, and you will reduce, I guarantee you that.

Recently I answered in the column a letter from a woman who had lost 120 pounds in 13 months, and she said she was going to continue until down to normal. She weighed 350 pounds at the beginning!

All the records for exercising that I have examined are good, but you have to combine the right diet with any exercises in order to reduce. If exercises can be taken, it is a very important part of the reducing regime because exercise is important, even in normal weight, to improve the circulation of the blood and increase the muscle tone. To exercise the whole system to give muscle co-ordination for suppleness and agility; in other words, to assist all bodily functions. You will find that if you do some vigorous exercise every day, you won't have to diet so much. Walking is a good exercise. While theoretically an hour a day of brisk walking uses up but 300 calories at the time, it does speed up the bodily activities so that the food is burned much faster throughout the day.

The maintenance diet is what its name suggests: one that maintains you at your present weight, whether it is overweight, underweight or normal. For instance, if your weight is stationary for a certain period of time, then the average number of calories you have consumed during that period is considered your maintenance number. This you have to determine for yourself, of course. Have you our pamphlet on "Reducing and Gaining"? That gives more specific directions.

"Will you please tell me what will heal an old operation wound, which has opened? It has healed up mostly, but it drains, and I have tried everything to heal it. A scab will form over night, and on touching it, it will break open and drain."

"MISS A."

Have the wound examined, Miss A. It may be possible that there is a little bit of foreign matter there. Perhaps some material was used in sewing the wound which was not absorbable, and it excites the attention of the surgeon when he removed the stitches.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

A woman who lived to more than her three score years and ten said she thought age should have no terrors for anyone. In her estimation, it was a time of greatest happiness, of a serene surveying of the steep path of life toward the helping others over the stoniest bits.

This woman declared that the happiest part of her life had been its last 20 years.

Judging from my correspondence, young people do have a lot of trouble. Their parents constitute the greater part of my mail.

ALWAYS WAITING: It seems ridiculous to me, dear, that you still spend hours waiting for this boy friend, when, if you gave him up you could have a good time with other friends. As soon as you know that you and this boy are stopped going exclusively, one another, the others would come back. But they bore you, so say, Well, if you continue to go with this young man, and finally marry him, you will be bored many times and have no way out. I suppose he has an attractive personality. His actions and the loss of your old friends are exactly the reasons I advocate not going with just one boy friend unless you are engaged to him. You are more or less at his mercy, you see, and by throwing a jealous fit now and then, when you go with another, he can keep you miserably waiting for him. If you are so afraid of losing him that you will not take drastic measures you will have to continue to wait, my dear. But my very strong impression is that you should read the riot act to the young man telling him that the VERY NEXT time he leaves you waiting you will not be at home when he calls and he will get no more dates with you. And MEAN it.

VIOLET: Your problem is certainly a baffling one. You and the boy both love your husband and his father. He is so good in many ways and so unbearable in others. He is the sole cause of your ill health and the boy's? Are you eating the right things, what the dieticians call a "balanced diet"? Do you drink milk and get plenty of fresh air and proper exercise? I know that worry injures one's health quicker than anything, but you must try to get stronger. Then, perhaps your problem may not seem quite so hopeless. Your husband is probably jealous of his son. Consciously or unconsciously, he wants your sole attention. Thus he tries to belittle and make ridiculous all the boy's efforts. Could you send the boy away to school or to a camp for the summer, where he will have his health supervised and be treated with impartiality? If not, you must thrash the matter over with his father. Tell him that your own and the boy's health depends on him. He may think to develop a more manly spirit in the boy, perhaps thinks him weak and effeminate. Try to show him that he is taking the wrong course. That in order to make him strong and self-reliant so that he may go out into the world and fend for himself, supporting, he must try to help him along the lines on which the child is made—not beat him into the pattern he chooses. I am sorry your letter is so long it cannot be printed, for I am sure many women have the same problem. It is not uncommon to find a lack of sympathy and understanding between a boy and his father, and the mother torn between the two, trying to protect the child and at the same time retain her love for the husband who is good in other ways.

Peter's Adventures

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

MOON MAGIC AND FLIGHT FEVER

Such a to-do in the middle of the night. Peter was puzzled.

"Do tell me what it is all about, Gander, can't you?" pleaded the boy. "What could have happened to make you go on like that?"

Gander gazed long at Peter before he spoke—the boy could see the bird's eyes shining in the moonlight, for by now all was clear, clear as only a starry night in November can be, and the "yellow ball," as the birds would have called the moon, was rolling along through the deep blue of the sky.

"My boy, the greatest thing that can happen to a Goose has happened tonight," answered Gander, solemnly, wagging his head.

"Every Goose in the stock has caught the flight fever. We have felt the urge to fly; the desire to leave this well-known old barnyard, all our old friends, the crows, the horses, the pigs and the sheep, and soaring into the clear, cold air, sail past bare woods, frozen rivers, mountains, with their snow-tipped peaks, on and on, until we come to the land that is ever green, to the waters that are always open, under skies that are always sunny."

"Aha! How my heart aches when I think of it. For although the greatest has happened, so too, has the saddest thing come to us. For at the moment we most long to fly we remember we are geese of the barnyard, born to spend our lives on earth, with clipped wings and short breaths that would not take us far. What a lack! We are tame. What wouldn't we give to be wild Geese on a clear November night!"

There were few clouds to get in the way of the "yellow ball" as it rolled along. They had blown off to play tag in some other part of the sky, and in the light of the moon things began to take strange shapes and to do queer things. The shadows of two tall, bare trees that grew by the fence suddenly clasped branches and joined in a mad dance. Over in the corner a bush that the wind had not yet stripped of its long leaves away and swirled in the light breeze, now this way, now that, "Looks just like a ghost," muttered the boy under his breath, although how he knew, nobody knows, for, to tell the truth, he had never seen one of a castle grand and the little duck pond glistened like silver.

Breakfast

When cooking the cereal call a double quantity. Put aside half for reheating or pour it while hot into a can or deep, square pan and when cold slice it for frying.

Vary that old-fashioned cornstarch pudding by adding chocolate to half of recipe. First, pour half of pudding in a glass dish until it cools, then pour over remaining flavored with chocolate.

MAJOR LEAGUE TEAMS STACK UP ABOUT THE SAME AS LAST YEAR

NEW YORK, April 9.—Sizing up the sixteen major league teams a week before the opening of the 1929 baseball season no radical reversals from last year's form are expected in the two pennant races beginning next Tuesday.

The New York Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics may have slipped a trifle, yet that remains to be seen for training camp evidence sometimes proves misleading. They are quite likely to battle for the pennant again.

The New York Giants and Chicago Cubs are favorites in the National League race, with the St. Louis Cardinals possibly figuring importantly in a close race.

The American League teams in a nutshell follow:

Yankees: Same old tough team to beat. Possibly improved pitching with Pennock back. Catching will be weak until Bengough returns. Spirit of club good as players really want to set a new American League record of four straight pennants.

Athletics: No better than last year with a patched-up infield and a crippled pitching staff. Inferiority complex of A's when they play the Yankees turned tide of race last year and Philadelphia can hope for no better than second place unless it does better than six out of twenty-two against the Yankees this season.

Washington: A dangerous club under Walter Johnson's leadership. Myer at third and Bluege at shortstop have strengthened the infield. Pitching good.

Browns: Failure of a rookie third baseman to make good hasn't brightened Brown's prospects. Gray and Crowder will have to repeat last year's records to keep the Browns up there.

Detroit: A good team but can't Bucky Harris get a team that wouldn't play for Moriarty to play for him? Plenty of punch but pitching rather doubtful.

Cleveland: Completely reorganized and may spring a surprise. Too many left handed hitters in lineup but if all changes pan out well the Indians may go some place.

White Sox: Stronger in outfield but pitching and infield about same. Blackburne will have trouble trying to keep dissension from cropping out again.

Red Sox: Many changes and likely to get out of cellar if White Sox flop.

The National League in a nutshell follows:

Giants: Greatly improved team over last season. Mays and Walker figure to strengthen pitching staff. Welsh, Ott, Hogan, O'Farrell all look better than last season. Leach will add strength.

Cubs: Are the Cubs stronger with Hornsby or aren't they? Maguire played a great defensive game at second last season and the Cubs may miss him although Hornsby will add power.

Third base is a weak spot and pitching staff is no stronger.

Cardinals: Showing of Cardinals likely to depend on what veteran pitchers do. Revamped infield uncertain. Outfield stronger than last year.

Pittsburgh: A great offensive team but defensively none too strong. Traynor's hip injury and Paul Waner's holdout tactics have retarded the Pirates. Petty will strengthen pitching staff.

Cincinnati: No punch, but may be troublesome if veteran pitchers function smoothly. Third base is a weak spot. Kelly slipping at first base.

Brooklyn: Not as good as last year. Pitching staff weaker and injuries to Wright, Flowers and other players have weakened team.

Braves: Worst looking ball club in either league.

IRON LANTERN SOLD TO THOMAS MASON; TO OPEN WEDNESDAY

The Iron Lantern Coffee Shoppe located in the basement of the Messenger Bldg., at Detroit and Second Sts., will be reopened Wednesday under the same name by Thomas I. Mason, Milwaukee, Wis., former Xenian, it is announced.

Mr. Mason, who has been employed as linotype operator on Wisconsin newspapers for the last two years, purchased the stock at a public sale conducted on the premises Monday afternoon by his brother, Mrs. W. C. Sutton and John Sutton.

The establishment is stocked with a line of antiques, books, pottery and novelties in addition to the restaurant department. The latter department is expected to be made one of the attractive features and luncheon and dinner will be served every day. The circulating library in the shop will also be continued.

Mr. Mason and his wife expect to move to Xenia to live. The new owner, who will manage the coffee shop, was employed as linotype operator on the Record-Herald at Vausau, Wis. for one year and for the last year has been similarly employed on the Wisconsin News at Milwaukee, Wis. He is well known in this city.

CONTINUATION OF ROTATING ARMY OFFICES ANNOUNCED

By JAMES W. GOOD

Secretary of War

(James William Good was born at Cedar Rapids, Ia., Sept. 24, 1866. He is a graduate of Coe College, later obtaining an L. L. B. degree at the University of Michigan. From 1906 to 1908 he was city attorney of Cedar Rapids. He was elected to congress the following year from the fifth Iowa district, serving until 1923. For two terms he was chairman of the committee on appropriations. He then resumed his law practice at Chicago, until recently when he was appointed secretary of war by President Hoover. His home is now in Evanston, Ill.)

The question of reappointment of bureau chiefs and their assistants has been under consideration by me for a considerable period.

Under the national defense act officers commissioned in the non-combatant branches are not eligible for selection as combatant general officers of the line of the army. In order that more officers of these branches may have the prospect of becoming generals during their service it would appear desirable and in the interest of these departments that appointments as chiefs of these branches be not made permanent in character.

For the above reason it is desirable to establish a general principle of rotation in the branches for the benefit of the service in general and in order to provide greater opportunity to all.

While there may be occasions when the best interest of the service may necessitate exceptions, I have adopted a general policy of rotation.

rotation concerning appointment of chiefs and assistant chiefs of bureaus as I believe that the application of this general principle is in accordance with the intent of congress and for the good of the service as a whole.

I desire to emphasize the fact that it is our policy to maintain in time of peace only a skeletonized army and that it is therefore of the utmost importance that the chiefs of branches should be highly efficient at all times to meet any emergency that might arise. I think that this might be assured by rotation in office that would bring periodically to the highest position in branches, men who recently have had intimate contact with troops and field services and who will, in consequence, bring fresh zeal and enthusiasm, progressive ideas and recent varied experience to their task, thus vitalizing the whole military establishment.

Red Sox: Many changes and likely to get out of cellar if White Sox flop.

The National League in a nutshell follows:

Giants: Greatly improved team over last season. Mays and Walker figure to strengthen pitching staff. Welsh, Ott, Hogan, O'Farrell all look better than last season. Leach will add strength.

Cubs: Are the Cubs stronger with Hornsby or aren't they? Maguire played a great defensive game at second last season and the Cubs may miss him although Hornsby will add power. Third base is a weak spot and pitching staff is no stronger.

Cardinals: Showing of Cardinals likely to depend on wait veteran pitchers do. Revamped infield uncertain. Outfield stronger than last year.

Pittsburgh: A great offensive team but defensively none too strong. Traynor's hip injury and Paul Waner's holdout tactics have retarded the Pirates. Petty will strengthen pitching staff.

Cincinnati: No punch, but may be troublesome if veteran pitchers function smoothly. Third base is a weak spot. Kelly slipping at first base.

Brooklyn: Not as good as last year. Pitching staff weaker and injuries to Wright, Flowers and other players have weakened team.

Braves: Worst looking ball club in either league.

IRON LANTERN SOLD TO THOMAS MASON; TO OPEN WEDNESDAY

The Iron Lantern Coffee Shoppe located in the basement of the Messenger Bldg., at Detroit and Second Sts., will be reopened Wednesday under the same name by Thomas I. Mason, Milwaukee, Wis., former Xenian, it is announced.

Mr. Mason, who has been employed as linotype operator on Wisconsin newspapers for the last two years, purchased the stock at a public sale conducted on the premises Monday afternoon by his mother, Mrs. Winifred Mason, constable, on his bid of $365. There were only two bidders.

The coffee shop was originally opened about three months ago by Mrs. W. C. Sutton and John Sutton. The establishment is stocked with a line of antiques, books, pottery and novelties in addition to the restaurant department. The latter department is expected to be made one of the attractive features and luncheon and dinner will be served every day. The circulating library in the shop will also be continued.

Mr. Mason and his wife expect to move to Xenia to live. The new owner, who will manage the coffee shop, was employed as linotype operator on the Record-Herald at Wausau, Wis. for one year and for the last year has been similarly employed on the Wisconsin News at Milwaukee, Wis. He is well known in this city.

Who's Who and Timely Views

CONTINUATION OF ROTATING ARMY OFFICES ANNOUNCED BY JAMES W. GOOD

Secretary of War

James William Good was born at Cedar Rapids, Ia., Sept. 24, 1866. He is a graduate of One College, later obtaining an L. L. B. degree at the University of Michigan. From 1906 to 1908 he was city attorney of Cedar Rapids. He was elected to congress the following year from the fifth Iowa district, serving until 1923. For two terms he was chairman of the committee on appropriations. He then resumed his law practice at Chicago, until recently when he was appointed secretary of war by President Hoover. His home is now in Evanston, Ill.

The question of reappointment of bureau chiefs and their assistants has been under consideration by me for a considerable period.

Under the national defense act officers commissioned in the non-combatant branches are not eligible for selection as combatant general officers of the line of the army. In order that more officers of these branches may have the prospect of becoming generals during their service it would appear desirable and in the interest of these departments that appointments as chiefs of these branches be not made permanent in character.

For the above reason it is desirable to establish a general principle of rotation in the branches for the benefit of the service in general and in order to provide greater opportunity to all.

While there may be occasions when the best interest of the service may necessitate exceptions, I have adopted a general policy of rotation concerning appointment of chiefs and assistant chiefs of bureaus as I believe that the application of this general principle is in accordance with the intent of congress and for the good of the service as a whole.

I desire to emphasize the fact that it is our policy to maintain in time of peace only a skeletonized army and that it is therefore of the utmost importance that the chiefs of branches should be highly efficient at all times to meet any emergency that might arise. I think that this might be assured by rotation in office that would bring periodically to the highest position in branches, men who recently have had intimate contact with troops and field services and who will, in consequence, bring fresh zeal and enthusiasm, progressive ideas and recent varied experience to their task, thus vitalizing the whole military establishment.

Bowling

The champion Greene County Lumber Co. bowling team brought its 1928-29 Recreation League season to a close in a championship manner by making a clean sweep of the three-game series with the runnerup Red Wing Co. Monday night.

As a result the Bulls, at present in third place, have a chance to finish in second place in the league providing they win three straight games from the Lang Chevrolet Co. this week.

Bill Moorehead turned in a three-game total of 603 for the winners. Anderson led the losers with 574. Box score:

OBITUARY
William John Currie, aged 72, died at his home in Yellow Springs March 29, 1929. Except for a number of years spent in Colorado his entire life was passed in Yellow Springs where he was highly respected.

During the past winter Mr. Currie was very ill with erysipelas but recently he had recovered sufficiently to go about some. Thursday evening he was taken suddenly ill. Saturday he was worse and while Mrs. Currie had gone to the telephone to call the physician she heard Mr. Currie fall. When she went back upstairs she discovered that he had shot himself and had passed away instantly. Because of his illness friends feel that he was not responsible for his act.

When quite young he became a member of the Methodist Church and he was a faithful member of the Odd Fellows for about forty years.

Funeral services were held at the home April 2. Rev. Patton of the M. E. Church had charge of the services and was assisted by Rev. Dr. Orr of Pittsburgh and by the local Odd Fellows Lodge. Burial was made in Glen Forest Cemetery.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Passed Up!

CHAPTER LIX
Betty was so early at the office the next morning that she had to get the janitor of the building to let her in. She walked around her little office, then strolled into Andy's room and ran her hand affectionately across the back of his desk chair where she had so often seen his head rest.

She sat in his chair and, assuming Andy's air as nearly as possible, said: "Take some dictation, Miss Brown! You will take dictation from me the rest of your life, young woman! I am doing all the dictating!" "Yes, sir!" she answered in her own voice. She laughed at her foolishness and scampered back to her own office, where she danced several steps. Remembering the time she danced in Mr. Smith's office, and the disastrous results, she stopped, crossing her fingers to ward off bad luck. She sat down at her desk.

About half past nine her buzzer sounded and she rose with a happy smile, picked up her note book and walked into Andy's room. At the desk sat the senior Mr. Adair. Betty's face fell.

"What's the matter? Disappointed? Andy's not coming down today. The old man is on the job again!"

Betty's chin trembled and she almost burst into tears. She sat down at her accustomed place, but Mr. Adair did not dictate. He sat silent, until she looked up at him.

"What's the matter? I hate hysterical women! Thought you weren't that kind! What's the matter?" he demanded, fiercely.

"Nothing, sir. I am all right!" "You're lying! All women lie! What's the matter?"

"I was expecting Andy. I was disappointed. I'm sorry."

"What's the matter, I said? Don't lie to me. Women all lie. I hate liars! I hate liars! What's the matter?"

"Nothing, sir," repeated Betty, rising. Tears dripped off her lashes.

"Better tell me," he suggested, kindly.

"Oh, Mr. Adair, I can tell you! It's something one can't tell."

"Something about Andy?"

"Yes, sir."

"What is it? Tell me, little girl!" "I—I—I wanted him to marry me!" sobbed Betty.

"Want him to marry you? Why doesn't he marry you? Is there any reason why he shouldn't marry you?"

"Yes, sir!" She wrung her hands, kerchiefs.

"Why didn't you tell him yesterday?"

"I didn't find out, till last night," sobbed Betty, miserably.

"He'll marry you or I'll horse-whip him! He shall right any wrong he has done you, the pup! I'll—"

He paused, aghast. Betty had stopped crying and went into a gale of laughter.

"What's the matter now?" he demanded. "I hate hysterical women."

"Oh, please, you're all wrong! It's nothing like that! Andy hasn't done me any wrong! It's just a misunderstanding."

"How was I to know! Women haven't any sense! I hate hysterical women!"

"Do you want Andy to marry me?" asked Betty.

"I did, until you went crazy!" "Please, Mr. Adair, let me explain." Betty seated herself on the corner of the desk.

"Explain? Explain? Isn't that what I've been trying to get you to do for hours and hours? Explain!"

"Night before last, after we saw you at the roof garden, Andy proposed to me. I told him I couldn't marry him because another man had been so good to me that I felt I had to marry him. I thought he wanted me to marry him. Yesterday I went to see the other man and found he didn't want to marry me at all, but was in love with another girl. I was in a hurry to marry him because I couldn't stand being around Andy when I was so much in love with him."

"I telephoned your house last night, but Andy was out. I came down this morning to tell him we could get married, and when I came in here I found you instead of him. That's why I cried. He had gone away and I can't see him to tell him!"

"Yes, and the United States mails are stopped forever! The wires are down, and there is no way to get him a telegram! The telephone service is out of commission and the end of the world is coming tonight! You have lost your last chance of happiness!"

"Oh, but I wanted to tell him before he went away! He induced the people on the lake to invite me. I was to go with him as his fiancée!" Betty began to sob again.

"Stop it, you little fool. I got letters to write! I'll send him a wire which will bring him back here today. Maybe he hasn't gone yet. He was to go on the afternoon train. How can I be expected to know?"

"He persuaded his mother to go, too. I suppose she was going to sponsor you or guarantee you or something! Guess she didn't want to go, either. He twists her around

Attacks Prohibition

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, former Republican national committee woman from New York, has announced that one of her chief reasons for resigning her post was "wanted to devote her untrammelled efforts toward working for a change in the prohibition law."

Mrs. Sabin is a well-known figure in the prohibition movement. She has been active in various organizations and has been a vocal advocate of the cause.

Her resignation from the national committee was a significant event in the prohibition movement. It was seen as a blow to the organization, but also as a statement of her commitment to the cause.

Mrs. Sabin's decision was based on her belief that she could make a greater impact on the prohibition issue by focusing her efforts on a single organization.

She has been a vocal advocate of the cause, and her resignation was a statement of her commitment to the cause.

OBITUARY
William John Currie, aged 72, died at his home in Yellow Springs March 29, 1929. Except for a number of years spent in Colorado his entire life was passed in Yellow Springs where he was highly respected.

During the past winter Mr. Currie was very ill with erysipelas but recently he had recovered sufficiently to go about some. Thursday evening he was taken suddenly ill. Saturday he was worse and while Mrs. Currie had gone to the telephone to call the physician she heard Mr. Currie fall. When she went back upstairs she discovered that he had shot himself and had passed away instantly. Because of his illness friends feel that he was not responsible for his act.

When quite young he became a member of the Methodist Church and he was a faithful member of the Odd Fellows for about forty years.

Funeral services were held at the home April 2, Rev. Patton of the M. E. Church had charge of the services and was assisted by Rev. Dr. Orr of Pittsburgh and by the local Odd Fellows lodge. Burial was made in Glen Forest Cemetery.

Dr. and Mrs. S. F. Weston gave a six o'clock dinner Saturday in honor of their son Burns, who is home for a few days from New Haven, Conn., where he will graduate in June from Yale College Law School. At this dinner the engagement of Burns Weston and Miss Simonette Humphrey of Paris, France, was announced. Miss Humphrey is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Humphrey and is well known here where she has made several visits to the home of her late grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Humphrey. Those who attended the dinner party are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Drake, Misses Charlotte and Anna Dawson, Merrill and Clyde Dawson, Conny Hurlbut, Mrs. Will Figgins, of New Bedford, Mass.; Dr. and Mrs. S. F. Weston and Burns Weston.

Mrs. John Birel delightfully entertained the N. B. N. Club with a luncheon at her home on Dayton St. Monday in honor of one of the former members, Mrs. Will Figgins, of New Bedford, Mass., who is here on a little visit.

Miss Leora Dickman of Dayton, spent Sunday with Miss Leah May Shook.

Mrs. Fred Anderson and daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Shadley, Cincinnati Ave., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Shadley of St. Paris. From there they motored to Greenville to visit Mrs. Anderson's mother, Mrs. R. M. Mills. They returned to Xenia by way of Sidney where they visited Mrs. Anderson's sister, Mrs. Alice Stump.

Mrs. Will Figgins, of New Bedford, Mass., is visiting her sister, Mrs. S. F. Weston.

Miss Brownie Stafford has returned from Troy where she spent the winter with relatives.

Miss Ethel Carlisle has returned to her school work in Buffalo, N. Y., after spending the spring vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Carlisle.

Mrs. T. J. Ridenour, who has been with relatives in Florida for the past two months arrived home Friday.

ADAIR FURNITURE STORE WILL BUILD NEW STORE FRONT

The R. D. Adair Co. furniture store at 20-24 N. Detroit St. is to have an attractive new store front. Remodeling work was begun Tuesday by Jeffries and Son, local contracting firm, and the present front is being torn away.

The lower part of the store front will be of marble and the top composed of multi-colored face brick. A new vestibule entrance with a center door and show windows on either side is being planned.

A marquee, an ornamental suspended roof hanging over the entrance will add to the attractiveness of the exterior of the store.

Shoots Girl, Then Self

Mary Yates, 18-year-old school girl, was shot dead by Edwin J. Melhuish, 49, father of her school chum, following crash of automobile in which they were driving. It is alleged that Mary was fighting off advances of Melhuish, when he lost control of wheel and car plunged off road, following which he shot Mary, then self.

Attacks Prohibition

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, former Republican national committeewoman from New York, has announced that one of her chief reasons for resigning her post was she "wanted to devote her working-travelled efforts toward working for a change in the prohibition law."

CHAPTER LIX

Betty was so early at the office the next morning that she had to get the janitor of the building to let her in. She walked around her little office, then strolled into Andy's room and ran her hand affectionately across the back of his desk chair where she had so often seen his head rest.

She sat in his chair and, assuming Miss Brown's air as nearly as possible, said: "Take some dictation from me the rest of your life, young woman! I am doing all the dictating!" "Yes, sir!" she said, laughing at her foolishness and scampered back to her own office, where she danced several steps. Remembering the time she danced in Mr. Smith's office, and the disastrous results, she stopped, crossing her fingers to ward off bad luck. She sat down at her desk.

About half past nine her buzzer sounded and she rose with a happy smile, picked up her note book and walked into Andy's room. At the desk sat the senior Mr. Adair. Betty's face fell.

"What's the matter? Disappointed? Andy's not coming down today. The old man is on the job again!"

Betty's chin trembled and she almost burst into tears. She sat down at her accustomed place, but Mr. Adair did not dictate. He sat silent, until she looked up at him.

"What's the matter? I hate hysterical women! Thought you weren't that kind! What's the matter?" he demanded, fiercely.

"Nothing, sir. I am all right!"

"You're lying! All women lie! What's the matter?"

"I was expecting Andy. I was disappointed. I'm sorry."

"What's the matter, I said? Don't lie to me. Women all lie. I hate liars! I hate liars! What's the matter?"

"Nothing, sir," repeated Betty, rising. Tears dripped off her lashes.

"Better tell me," he suggested, kindly.

"Oh, Mr. Adair, I can't tell you! It's something one can't tell."

"Something about Andy?"

"Yes, sir."

"What is it? Tell me, little girl."

"I—I—I wanted him to marry me!" sobbed Betty.

"Want him to marry you? Why doesn't he marry you? Is there any reason why he shouldn't marry you?"

"Yes, sir!" She wrung her hands. "Why didn't you tell him yesterday?"

"I didn't find out, till last night."

"I did, until you went crazy!"

"Please, Mr. Adair, let me explain." Betty seated herself on the corner of the desk.

"Explain? Explain? Isn't that what I've been trying to get you to do for hours and hours? Explain!"

"Night before last, after we saw you at the roof garden, Andy proposed to me. I told him I couldn't marry him because another man had been so good to me that I felt I had to marry him. I thought he wanted me to marry him. Yesterday I went to see the other man and found he didn't want to marry me at all, but was in love with another girl. I was in a hurry to marry him because I couldn't stand being around Andy when I was so much in love with him."

"I telephoned your house last night, but Andy was out. I came down this morning to tell him we could get married, and when I came in here I found you instead of him. That's why I cried. He has gone away and I can't see him to tell him!"

"Yes, and the United States mails are stopped forever! The wires are down, and there is no way to get him a telegram! The telephone service is out of commission and the end of the world is coming tonight! You have lost your last chance of happiness!"

"Oh, but I wanted to tell him before he went away! He induced the people on the lake to invite me. I was to go with him as his fiancée!" Betty began to sob again.

"Stop it, you little fool. I got letters to write! I'll send him a wire which will bring him back here kiting. Maybe he hasn't gone yet. He was to go on the afternoon train. How can I be expected to know?"

"He persuaded his mother to go, too. I suppose she was going to sponsor you or guarantee you or something! Guess she didn't want to go, either. He twists her around his finger, though. Women are like that, fools! Women either cry or interrupt you, or fool with your hair or let sons make monkeys out of them!"

"Oh, do you think we might catch him before he goes?" asked Betty, standing up in her excitement.

"Women are fools! Haven't you got any eyes?"

"What do you mean?"

"Look in the corner. Do you think he is going without those golf sticks? Do you think he will leave that tennis racket? Think the fishing rod is taking a summer vacation here in the office? Suppose he left that bag here because he thought someone would steal it at the house?"

Betty looked in the corner of the office, and saw the things he was talking about. Her eyes shone like stars. "Oh, he's coming here before he goes!" she exclaimed.

"It looks like he might do something of the sort," snorted the old gentleman. "Suppose you sit on his bag and take the answers to these letters. When you go into the other room to type them you might carry all these things in there so he can't escape you! Women are such fools!"

"I know I am!" cried Betty, happily.

"You are the only one I ever heard admit it. I like you. I might have known you would get married. The good ones always get married and leave the office. You are the only one who ever took my dictation and didn't interrupt me."

"Your top-knot is down," Betty smiled at him.

"What's that? What's that?" His hand ruffled up his hair, inquiringly.

"It's all right now. You look fierce again. I'm afraid of you now."

"Nothing of the sort! Nothing of the sort! You're not afraid of me! I'm not fierce! Are you going to take this dictation? I hate people who dilly dally and shilly shally when they have work to do!"

"I have taken all you have dictated this far," answered Betty.

"You need not dictate, anyway. I can answer those letters without dictation."

"Think you're smart, don't you? Andy said you could attend to everything while he was gone. Think you can put the old man on the shelf, do you? Get a good secretary who can attend to his work for a month or two and the marriage! Young men haven't any sense in business. I used to do all the correspondence for this firm myself, and did it with a pen, too, by gad!"

"You're wonderful, Mr. Adair!" cried Betty, rising. "Let me take the letters and answer them for you. You stay here and watch for Andy. Make him do the right thing by me when he comes!" She laughed at him as she spoke.

"You're a nice girl," the old man admitted, grudgingly. "I like you and I know you will make Andy a good wife. He tells me you have no parents. You must let me be a

The editorial quoted suggests a form of censorship to be exerted by the picture public at the box office. This censorship is the most deadly variety and perhaps the fairest and most just. The editorial quoted suggests a form of censorship to be exerted by the picture public at the box office. This censorship is the most deadly variety and perhaps the fairest and most just of the state. The ridiculous actions of the state censors have practically laughed them out of court. Surely the public is better able to criticize and express its criticism in enthusiastic patronage or no patronage at all.

"You may be interested in reading the following excerpt from an editorial 'About the Movies,' which appeared in the Christian Endeavor World of March 28, 1929:

"If the Church, instead of merely wringing its hands in despair, would organize a nation-wide group to investigate and endorse the best pictures, we may be sure that managers would listen. The one supreme argument that producers and local theater managers never disregard, is the argument of the box office. A deserted show is to them a calamity and we may be very sure that they will give the public what is wanted. National leaders of Christian thought might find here a good field for their organizing ability."

"Censorship cannot possibly bring about better pictures. Denunciation of so-called bad pictures, whether by club meetings, by printed articles or even by sermons, is equally ineffective. The support of good pictures and the consequent encouragement of the frightened. My stomach was swollen so that I could hardly remove my clothing. My blood pressure was high. I had dizzy spells, and it seemed that I could never shake off a cold, my system was so depleted.

"I read of Konjola and decided to give it a trial. Results were quick, and after a brief treatment all of my symptoms and pains disappeared. Today I feel so good that I can hardly believe I am the same person. I owe my new health to this medicine and I shall always be glad to recommend and endorse Konjola to others who are in ill health."

Konjola is different from any other known remedy in this section. It contains 22 juices extracted from natural plants, which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that has been going on for years. At the same time, many weak and run-down systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product, until now, Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is sold in Xenia at the Gallaher drug store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section. Adv.

Worthy successor to the world-famous Commander which sped 25,000 miles in less than 23,000 minutes in heroic proof of its speed and staying power. Heir to the full fruits of Studebaker's engineering genius, which requires no further evidence than the fact that Studebaker today holds, undisputed, every official speed and endurance record for fully equipped stock cars.

Today's Commander is emphatically today's motor car. Its superb performance is matched by forward, youthful style, which beautifully interprets that performance. Lower—lower looking—and steadier at great speed—because of its costly double-drop frame. Restful riding, such as motor-ing never knew until Studebaker introduced the luxury of ball bearing spring shackles, is still further enhanced by hydraulic shock absorbers.

Available either with straight-eight or with six-cylinder motor, The Commander is offered by Studebaker, Builder of Champions, as "the greatest motor car ever built and sold at its price." Your first ride will prove it.

The ELECTROLUX Refrigerator

The GAS that gives you
HOT WATER
ICE
now makes

A tiny gas flame, like a little pilot light, does all the work in the new Electro-lux refrigerator.

In the new Electrolux, a tiny gas flame and a trickle of water give you perfect noiseless refrigeration

COLD from heat. It sounds incredible. But that's just what happens in the new Electrolux. A tiny gas flame, like a little pilot light, does all the work of making cold.

Electrolux has no machinery to wear, need oiling or cause trouble. There are no moving parts to run up repair bills or make the slightest sound.

And, best of all, the Gas Refrigerator costs less to operate than any other refrigerating system.

Drop into our display rooms and let us show you the many different models of this marvelous refrigerator. A small de-posit will put one in your home. You can pay the balance in convenient easy pay-ments. Come in today.

The Kitchenette model is ideal for the small family. It has a food capacity of 4 cubic feet and makes 36 large ice cubes between meals.

An Eight- a Studebaker—and a Commander

at $1495—$1350
COMMANDER SIX
Prices at the factory

THE NEW COMMANDER EIGHT COUPE FOR TWO—$1495. COMMANDER SIX COUPE—$1350. Ideal for business. Large luggage space under rear deck. Also available with rumble seat. Prices at the factory. Bumpers and spare tire extra.

THINK of it! An eight, a Studebaker—and a Com-mander—for $1495. Worthy successor to the world-famous Commander which sped 25,000 miles in less than 23,000 minutes in heroic proof of its speed and staying power. Heir to the full fruits of Studebaker's engineering genius, which requires no further evidence than the fact that Studebaker today holds, undisputed, every official speed and endurance record for fully equipped stock cars.

Today's Commander is emphatically today's motor car. Its superb performance is matched by forward, youthful style, which beautifully interprets that performance. Lower—lower looking—and steadier at great speed—because of its costly double-drop frame. Restful riding, such as motor-ing never knew until Studebaker introduced the luxury of ball bearing spring shackles, is still further enhanced by hydraulic shock absorbers.

Available either with straight-eight or with six-cylinder motor, The Commander is offered by Studebaker, Builder of Champions, as "the greatest motor car ever built and sold at its price." Your first ride will prove it.
